Gore Respited, Is Returned To Tower

REPUDIATES STORY TOLD BY RAY GIRL ON SUNDAY NIGHT

Woman, Grilled By Boykin, Insists That Her Confession of Crime Is True.

EXECUTION STAYED BY SUPREME COURT

Condemned Youth Saved From Chair for Sixty Days By Ruling on Technicality.

Freed for sixty days from the shadow of the electric chair, Mell Gore, who was given a new lease on life by the state supreme court only a few hours prior to the time for his execution for complicity in the murder of William H. Cheek, Tuesday night returned from the state prison farm at Milledgeville to his cell in Fulton tower, where he spent many months waging a fight for life which appeared futile until he stood on the brink of death.

At the same time, Ruby Ray, the woman in the case, stuck doggedly to her confession that she fired the shot which killed Cheek; clinging to her story in the face of a written statement by Gore Tuesday morning to the effect that she had taken no part in the Peachtree road grocery hold-up in December of last year.

Grilled for several hours by Solicitor General John A. Boykin Tuesday afternoon, Ruby signed a sworn statement in which she repeated that she was the slayer and that blame for the crime was thrown upon Jack Wilson, Chicago gunman, because she, Gore and Theo Berry, youth serving life sentence in the case, knew he was a fugitive from justice. In addition she supplied full details of the Cheek hold-up and shooting and of the previous robbery of a West End pharmacy, in which she declared she also participated.

Ruby Ray's Story As Told To Boykin On Tuesday

WOMAN STICKS TO STORY OF CRIME AFTER GRILLING

The full text of the statement of Ruby Ray to Solicitor General John A. Boykin Tuesday afternoon following her removal from the state prison at Milledgeville to Fulton tower is as follows:

"Gore, Berry and myself held up the West End drug store. I went in first followed by Berry while Gore sat in the car. I commanded the proprietor to hold up his hands. He was then standing in the rear part of the store and to the left as you enter and behind the counter. No one got any money out of this man's pockets. "When the proprietor held up his hands Berry then went to the cash register which was on the same side where the man was standing and robbed the cash register. He got $45 from it. Gore drove us out there and also back after the robbery. Berry sat on the back seat. Gore and myself sat on the front seat when we returned from West End. Berry passed the money over to us in his cap. I counted it and gave it back to Berry. "We—Gore, Berry, and myself—were to meet the next morning. Gore was to call me. The purpose of his

BUSINESS OUTLOOK MOST PROMISING IN FOUR DECADES

Mills B. Lane, Banker and Financier, Says Georgia Is in Grip of Good Times.

BY I. O. MOSELEY.

Georgia's business outlook is more encouraging than it has been in 40 years, in the opinion of Mills B. Lane, head of the Citizens and Southern bank and an outstanding figure in the business life of the nation, who arrived here Tuesday after a motor trip into practically every section of the state.

"General conditions are better right now," Mr. Lane said, "and prospects are more encouraging than I ever saw before in my life. Business is good; there is a strong undercurrent of confidence among the people; fine crops have been made all over the state, and there is plenty of money in circulation. What else is there to be desired?"

A statement of this nature from a man of the caliber of Mills B. Lane is calculated to go a long way toward stimulating whatever scattered local unrest may exist in the state. Coming on the eve of fall and following certain recent financial difficulties which might have caused uneasiness to persons not in close touch with business conditions and without any knowledge of the soundness of business and the fine economic outlook, its importance cannot be over-emphasized.

Motor Trip Over State.

Mr. Lane left Savannah several days ago with his three sons for a motor trip which took him to Valdosta, thence along the Coast Line road to Albany, thence to Macon, Athens and Atlanta. He will leave this city today for Augusta and then go to Savannah later in the week.

"I decided on the automobile trip," Mr. Lane said, "because I want to educate my boys and I want to give them first hand knowledge of what a big and great state Georgia is."

Perhaps no other man in the country has as good insight or a firmer grasp of conditions in this section than Mr. Lane. He has studied conditions here and knows the situation at all times. Hence, his opinion is that of an authority, of a man well versed in every phase of activity that goes into the making of business, trade, marketing and other business.

John G. Richards Nominated for Governor, Defeating Ira C. Blackwood By Wide Margin.

HILL IS LEADING IN MARYLAND RACE

Anti-Klan Candidate Is Ahead in Colorado—Fred Green Is Leading Governor Groesbeck.

Columbia, S. C., September 14.—(AP)—Senator E. D. Smith, who voted for American participation in the world court, had apparently defeated Edgar A. Brown, who criticized him for that vote, in returns tabulated at midnight from today's run-off democratic primary.

With an estimated 10,000 votes yet to be accounted for, the standing of the candidates was:

Brown, 75,004; Smith 78,996.

Neither Senator Smith nor Mr. Brown, who is speaker of the South Carolina house of representatives, made any formal statement tonight. Mr. Brown was said by his campaign headquarters manager to be at his home in Darwell tonight.

Richards Winner.

John G. Richards, member of the railroad commission, was a decisive victory over Solicitor Ira C. Blackwood, of Spartanburg, in the gubernatorial nomination. Blackwood, who made his campaign on a platform of opposition to the indirect taxes on soft drinks and other so-called non-essentials while advocating general reform of the state's taxation system, conceded defeat early tonight. Richards stressed law enforcement and economy in his campaign.

Representative Hampton P. Fuler was renominated to congress from the seventh district over Ernest M. Dupre, Columbia business man, by about 1,500 votes.

REPRESENTATIVE HILL LEADING FOR SENATE.

Baltimore, September 14.—Representative John Phillip Hill, lead in the house, increased his lead over Senator O. E. Weller, for the republican senatorial nomination, late returns from city precincts here indicated.

AMATEUR TOURNEY MATCH PLAY OPENS WITH BOB LEADING

Atlanta Champion Shoots One Over Par in Last Qualifying Round for Total of 143.

HAZARDS CAUSE CHAMP'S TROUBLE

Titleholder Displays Versatility in Recoveries; Rudy Knepper in Second Place With 147 Score.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Constitution Sports Editor.

Baltusrol Country Club, Short Hills, N. J., September 14.—Shortly after the autumn sun rises over the Jersey hills Wednesday, Bobby Jones and Watts Gunn will tee off in separate brackets in the amateur championship play, one to defend the title which he has held for two years and the other to try and duplicate the feat of 1925 when he met his fellow-townsmen in the finals of the championship play.

Bobby, by taking the medal honors in the qualifying rounds through adding a beautiful 73 to his 70 of Monday, was the cynosure of all eyes at Baltusrol throughout the day and until just before dusk when six golfers with scores of 143 engaged in a play-off to determine which five would qualify.

Watts Gunn took his place at the front of the stage while the great Bobby walked by his side in the role of spectator, and Watts showed the stuff of which great golfers are made by going down on the first hole with a perfect five to insure a place in the championship final.

Watts, of Memphis; Eddie Held, Frank Dyer, of Memphis; M. L. Massengill, of Fort Worth; and W. B. Stevenson, of Chevy Chase, were tied for qualifying, each having scored 163. On the first hole of the play-off Watts, Outmet, Held and Massengill were victorious while Dyer and Stevenson went one over par and had to continue to the second hole to elect the fifth man necessary to fill the qualification list. Dyer was eliminated.

Bobby and Watts are drawn in different brackets and it is entirely possible that a repetition of the all-At-

Long Fight Among Board Members Seeking To Oust Assistant School Head, Comes to End.

RITCHIE PRAISED IN SUTTON REPORT

Board Votes 7 to 2 to Drop Series of Charges and Reelects Ritchie for New Term.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

A four-months fight to oust Raymond R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of Atlanta's public schools in charge of business affairs, was ended Tuesday afternoon when the board of education voted to dismiss 20 charges against him and immediately elected him for another year's term, to end July 1, 1927.

The vote was seven to two to dismiss the charges, those voting to dismiss being Dr. R. M. Eubanks, W. W. Gaines, J. W. Maddox, J. Oscar Mills, C. J. McLeander, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and Mrs. A. E. Wilson. Those voting against the dismissal were W. C. Slate and Dr. Fred Morris.

The action was taken following a lengthy report from Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, who was named by the board of education on May 30, 1926, to investigate charges and report his findings to the board for final consideration.

Included in charges, which were said to have been filed by W. C. Slate, were charges of inefficiency, failure to cooperate with other departments, dictatorial policies and others.

In his report to the board, Mr. Sutton stated that his findings after a thorough investigation did not warrant the dismissal of Ritchie, and that the entire school system has undergone a decided change for the better since Mr. Ritchie's administration.

NEW YORK-PARIS FLIGHT DELAYED BY BAD WEATHER

FOR CONSTITUTION

Captain Rene Fonck will report his forthcoming trans-Atlantic flight by radio from the plane, exclusively for The Atlanta Constitution and other members of the North American Newspaper alliance.

If and when he reaches Paris, Fonck will dictate a complete story of the flight. Fonck's reports will be the only official reports of the entire flight.

UNITED NEWS.

Roosevelt Field, L. I., September 14.—With Captain Rene Fonck, French world war ace, and three companions prepared to the last detail for embarking at dawn Wednesday on a non-stop flight from New York to Paris, threatening weather forced postponement of the venture.

A heavy storm was reported 300 miles off the grand banks of Newfoundland and ships at sea advised that rain was falling over an area of 500 miles in the Atlantic. Visibility was low and it was feared among air officers here that sea flying would be hazardous.

Another date for the hop-off will not be set until weather conditions permit. Captain Fonck was to have been accompanied by Lieutenant Lawrence W. Curtin, U. S. N.

The great plane, christened the "New York-Paris" by Mayor Walker of New York and blessed by an Episcopal service, has been given its final tests and is being loaded to weigh 28,000 pounds. A steam roller had followed mowers on the ground outside Paris is ready so that the take-off from the 3,600-mile flight may be made as satisfactorily as possible.

Betting seems to favor the success of the great air adventure and Fonck and his companions endorse general confidence in the undertaking, saying they will be on the landing field outside of Paris within 40 hours after the take-off.

Three Nations Participate.

France, Russia and the United States are represented in the flight. Igor Sikorsky, voluntary exile from Russia, and builder of the plane, will bid Godspeed to Fonck, Lieutenant Curtin, representing the United States, Charles Clavier, a Frenchman, and James Isomoff, a Russian.

Fonck is the pilot in charge. Curtin, navigator and relief pilot, Clavier the radio operator, and Isomoff will have charge of the navigation instruments.

Substitution of Lieutenant Curtin to replace Lieutenant A. S. S. U. was made to have made the flight, was made mysteriously and almost at the last minute, due to illness of Lieutenant Snoddy.

Curtin's designation was announced at a farewell luncheon to Captain Fonck at the Hotel Roosevelt. Curtin came to New York secretly from Washington Monday night on orders from the navy department. He has been aide to the chief of the bureau of aeronautics and is an experienced flier and navigator.

Three engines capable of making 425 horsepower apiece are expected to give the "New York-Paris" a possible speed of more than 100 miles an hour. The craft will carry 2,400 gallons of gasoline which will add 15,840 pounds of weight; 200 gallons of oil will weigh 1,600 pounds; the plane weighs 9,000 and the remaining 1,500 pounds of the total 28,000 will consist of crew, radio, instruments and equipment.

Only Chance Is Radio.

Clavier is designer of the plane's radio outfit, which is operated by a wind-driven electric motor. If forced to land, the fliers' only chance to live will be to summons aid by the wireless.

From Roosevelt Field the plane will pass over Boston and its last sight of land, if all goes well, will be on the shores of Newfoundland. From there it will head straight for Cherbourg, France and its course will then be chosen to land it outside of Paris.

Fonck is making the trip for a $25,000 prize offered by Raymond Orrie, New York hotel man of French origin, for the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Miss Myrtle Tumlin Found, Dead, Lying In Welter of Blood

Body Discovered by Brother Returning From Work. Later Placed Under Arrest, Brother Denies Knowledge of Crime.

LARGE SUM OF MONEY DISCOVERED IN HOUSE

Woman Had Been Tortured by Twisted Ribbon Around Neck, But Death Was Caused by Brutal, Smashing Blows.

Tortured by suffocation with a satin ribbon twisted about her throat, and finally clubbed to death with some blunt instrument, the body of Miss Myrtle Amanda Tumlin, 39, who lived with her brother at Howell Mill and Moore's Mill road, was found in a welter of blood at 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

After working on the case for six hours, county police—who first held to a theory of robbery and later abandoned it—arrested J. J. Tumlin, 54, the dead woman's brother, and held him in Fulton county tower to await action of the coroner. The arrest was made by Lieutenant A. T. Butler and Patrolmen T. J. Davis and L. J. Dickinson, who stated the arrest was based on information in their possession which they could not divulge at this time. He was held without privilege of bond.

At the Tower Tumlin, who is foreman of a convict gang working on Howell Mill road within a mile of the home, denied any connection with the crime and declared he knew nothing at all concerning it.

"I have nothing to conceal," he said. "I'll prove that just as soon as they give me an opportunity."

It was the brother, J. J. Tumlin, who, returning from work Tuesday afternoon, found the mutilated body of his sister sprawled on the floor of her bedroom. First reports that she had been slain with a hammer found near the body proved to be without foundation. Police have not discovered the blunt instrument used by the slayer to crush his victim's skull.

Tumlin—a big, rough-faced, light haired man, who appeared somewhat nervous—following his arrest was forced to make several footprints for comparison with those outlined in blood found on the floor of the death chamber.

Earliest reports also were to the effect that the sum of $1,100 had been stolen, but this also proved to be incorrect. A bundle of bills totaling $975 was found in the bottom drawer of a wardrobe across the hall from Miss Tumlin's bedroom, and police Tuesday night

Statement Made By J. J. Tumlin

Here is a statement given by J. J. Tumlin, Fulton county convict gang warden, to a Constitution reporter in a cell at Fulton county tower at midnight Tuesday:

"I had nothing to do with the killing of my sister and I know nothing about it. I have nothing to conceal. I'll prove that at the first opportunity."

"I got up about 4 o'clock Tuesday morning and left for work after talking with my sister for a short time. She told me she needed some shoes and might go to Atlanta during the day. I had breakfast at the convict camp."

"It was a custom for my sister to put some milk out front of the house for me at noon each day and a driver of the camp coming by would pick it up and bring it to me. The milk did not come Tuesday and I thought she had gone to Atlanta and attached no importance to the matter."

"I went home from work between 3:30 and 6 o'clock at night. The doors were locked and the windows open, with the shades down, just as I had left them. I went in the front door and found my sister's dead body. I notified my neighbor, W. R. Rosser, and he and his wife and children ran over and expressed horror at the crime."

"Miles Rosser, one of the boys, told me he saw a man in overalls with a short distance of the house early in the day. He said the man did not act suspiciously and did not pay much attention to him. He remembered, however, when the crime was discovered."

"My sister-in-law, Mrs. George Tumlin, and Deputy Sheriff J. M. Rolander were with me when we found the money in the wardrobe. It was all mine. My sister was my banker. She kept the money I earned but I warned her many times against telling anybody about this or changing money for anyone."

"It seemed to me that the bloody footprints were made by a man wearing a No. 7 shoe, which is much smaller than my own. The arch also was much higher than I wear."

"I had nothing to do with this thing, and I do not fear anything. I have absolutely nothing to hide from the police."

KENYON CLAIMS UNION VICTORY

Candidate Reported Defeated in Race for Solicitor General Hints Irregularity at Polls.

Gainesville, Ga., September 14.—(Special).—Declaring that he "ran a hard, fair race" for the office of solicitor general in the northeastern circuit and "was elected according to the official returns from all the counties," E. D. Kenyon, issued a statement here today hinting at election irregularities following a report that the correction of an error in the returns from Union county gave the contested office to Robert McMillan.

Kenyon's statement said he had sent friends to Union county to inspect the ballots and that they found the election returns there "in bad disorder." He declared that some of the tally sheets were in different parts of the county and that many of them could not be found at all instead of being sealed and in the clerk's office as required by law.

His complete statement follows: "I was surprised to hear the recent reports from Union county regarding the solicitor general's race in the northeastern circuit, and I know nothing about the truth of these reports. I only know that I ran a hard, fair race and was elected according to the official returns from all the counties."

"When I heard the startling report today from Union county I got some friends to go up there, and they found the election returns there in bad disorder. Instead of all the papers being sealed and in the clerk's office as the law requires, some of the bal-

Fashion Revue Benefit Packs City Auditorium

SHOW SPONSORED BY RICH'S PROVES GREAT EVENT

BY LOY WARWICK.

It could not have failed. The cause was far too worthy.

But, forgetting whatever charitable motives may have moved some of the thousands to spend good money for tickets; eliminating the consideration that it was for the lasting benefit of a lovely land of mountain boys and girls, of no privilege and no opportunity. Ignoring the fact that it bore the magic stamp of society's approval and patronage, there were other and abundant reasons for the crowning success of the fashion revue at the auditorium Tuesday night.

The municipal opera house was packed to the guard rails. The "audience" of the structure is said to be about 6,000. If so, then 6,000 men, women and children, witnessed the Tallulah Falls school fashion pageant, sponsored by M. Rich & Bros. company, Tuesday night. From the time the doors were opened at 7:30 o'clock, the seats began to fill. When Ernie Leide bent his knees for the commencement of the overture "Valencia," the last tiers about the great area had been occupied.

The proceeds go to the Tallulah Falls Institute, a school in the mountains for mountain children, sponsored and supported by the good women of Atlanta. All of the proceeds—debentures, professional dancers, musicians, singers, all contributed their part without compensation further the realization that they were helping some little fellows to get a foothold in an uneven world.

Exclusive of the exhibition of zany gowns, draped upon the graceful forms of some of Atlanta's most beautiful girls, the audience found many interesting things happening upon the great auditorium stage. For the men, and a majority of the feminine element of the assemblage, W. L. (Young)

Stirling was the chief attraction. Fuzzy Woodruff, who refereed a three-round bout between Stirling and another boy, who isn't quite as well known, called attention to the fact that the Georgia fighter rarely ever puts on his gloves for less than $50,000 or $75,000. Manequins occupied the ring-side seats, gloriously arrayed. The ropes were of dainty colored ribbons.

Jack Wilson's of a grayish color, the shoes I wore were also Jack Wilson's. They were black oxfords too large for me but I could get along with them all right.

"When I entered Mr. Check's store I called for some candy. I don't recall if I stated how much I wanted. Mr. Check was standing on the left hand side of the store as you enter and near the stove. When I called for the candy he went behind the counter to where the candy was located and pulled off a sack in which to place the candy. I was in the middle of the aisle of the store facing Mr. Check, when I drew the pistol from the right-hand hip pocket and pointed it toward Mr. Check. I then said: 'Hold them up.' I saw a glimpse of his pistol. I shot while he was trying to reach for this pistol. I also saw a long gun, either a shotgun or a rifle, which was in the rear of the store. I did not know that I had killed Mr. Check until the next morning when I arrived at Marietta and bought a paper.

"In our hold-up plan, Gore and myself had no signals between us. Before the Check hold-up, Gore and myself and Berry were in Gore's barbershop at Buckhead and agreed that if we got into any trouble we would lay it on Jack Wilson because he had escaped from the penitentiary in Michigan. After the killing all of us got into the automobile, went toward Oglethorpe and then turned off from Peachtree. I do not recall the place where we turned off. We got stuck in the mud after we turned off from Peachtree. We got out and helped push the car out of the mud. I got very muddy. I lost the cap I wore. I do not know at what place I lost it.

"Upon my arrival at the Edgewood hotel I cleaned the clothes the best I could and put them in a suitcase. These clothes were recovered in a hotel at Marietta. I gave these clothes to Jack Wilson in Marietta and he carried them with him from Marietta to Chattahoochee. Berry got off the car some place on Peachtree road. I got out at the Hurt building. Gore carried the car and put it up.

"When I got back to the Edgewood hotel it was then about 11 o'clock. Jack was sitting on the side of the bed waiting for me. I laid the pistol on the dressing table and have not seen it since. I had lived with Jack Wilson at this hotel for about one week prior to the killing. We were registered there under the name of Martin. I first met Jack at a hotel on Ivy street. Something after 11 o'clock that night Jack and myself arrived at the Kennesaw hotel where Jack registered for us. We remained there until 8 o'clock the next morning, when I caught a cab back for Atlanta and Jack left at 8:12 that same morning.

"I had intended going with Jack to Chicago, but changed my mind. I did not think there would be anything to it. We would not be identified. I have never heard from Jack since the time he left me at Marietta.

did receive a card with Jack's name on it postmarked Atlanta, but it was not written.

"Jack's things fit me fairly well when I did the hold-up. I am larger now than I was then by 35 pounds. Jack Wilson is about two inches taller than I am.

"Gore never called me after the killing. He did not know where I was, neither did Berry. None of us talked to or communicated with each other after the murder up till the trial of the case. Jack's clothes were not altered. I wore them just as they were. The clothes I wore was a whipcord coat without vest, sport style with belt and pleated back and a gray raincoat to match. The boyish boy that I had at the time of the killing Gore cut for me at his barbershop at Buckhead.

"I had talked to Gore about what Jack had done and then Gore proposed that we go out and do some jobs and said that Berry will be a good one to go in with us. We then decided on the Check hold-up.

"I talked to Gore Sunday at the state farm, but only about my confession.

"I sent and received notes from Gore while we were both in the Fulton county jail.

"No one has induced me to make a confession, I suggested it. I found it freely and of my own free will and it is the truth that I was present and fired the shot that killed W. H. Check. Jack Wilson's clothes were worn by me as above stated, but the coat was too large for me at that time. My present weight is 140 pounds.

"While I was helping to get the car out of the mud the rear wheel skidded and hit me on the left leg below the knee and caused it to bleed. (Signed) "RUBY RAY."

"Sworn to before me.

GORE IS SAVED; RUBY TELLS STORY

—who was saved from the chair at the last moment by a mandamus nisi from the supreme court staying the execution for 60 days—made the return from state's prison at Milledgeville to Fulton Tower.

He came back to his cell in Atlanta with the promise of his attorneys that they would "move heaven and earth in the next 60 days" to save him from death.

When Gore reached the tower Tuesday night he appeared greatly worn by the ordeal through which he had passed, but he greeted his jailers with a fervent "Thank God, I'm back again."

No commotion attended his return to his old cell.

A Constitution reporter greeted him and asked what he thought of Ruby Ray's explanation of her story that she had killed Check.

"I can't understand it," Gore said, "unless she is in love with Jack Wilson and thinks he is about to be captured. In this event she might think her confession and the fact that she takes all the blame for the killing on her shoulders will protect him. That's the only thing I can imagine which would cause her to do as she is doing."

The eleven-hour rescue of Gore from the chair came in dramatic fashion Tuesday after the condemned man had abandoned hope and had prepared himself for death. Scenes of wild confusion and rejoicing marked receipt in the state prison of the message that he was saved at least for a time from the chair.

This was made possible when the supreme court issued a mandamus nisi ordering Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, to show cause on October 5 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon why the supreme court should not grant a writ of habeas corpus requiring him to sign a bill of exceptions filed by Attorney Reuben Garland, representing Gore, based on the fact that Gore has not been sentenced to die following grant of a 60-day respite of his sentence by Governor Clifford Walker.

Governor Hails Execution.

The supreme court requested the governor to stay the execution pending the hearing of the case, and the governor complied, wiring the respite to Superintendent B. H. Dunaway at the state prison.

Justice Marcus Beck was the only member of the court to dissent from the decision. He based his dissenting opinion on the ground that Judge Humphries' refusal to sign the bill of exceptions was in accordance with the law.

"Gore was convicted and sentenced in the regular way," he said, "and the fact that he was respited did not in any way alter the sentence. It was not necessary for an order to be issued by the superior court for the execution."

Ruby Sticks to Story.

Shortly after her arrival at Fulton Tower from Milledgeville in the morning of Special Investigators Fred Stephens and Dolph Riley, Ruby Ray was carried to the office of Solicitor Boykin Tuesday morning.

Closeted in the private chambers of the solicitor, she graphically related her story of the robbery of the West End drug store and the murder of Check. She was grilled for approximately three hours, during which time, according to Solicitor Boykin, she wept at length.

In the statement, she reiterated that she shot and killed Check and that Jack Wilson, who it is claimed fired the actual shots, was not even with Gore, Berry and herself at any time during the occurrence.

Details of Crime.

Ruby said that she and Gore went into the Check store leaving Berry in the automobile. She was wearing a whipcord suit of Jack Wilson's, his gray cap, his shoes and carried his gun with which she declared she fired the fatal shots after Check failed to throw up his hands as she requested. She said that she thought Check was going to use a revolver which she spied in the show case and fired when he failed to follow her command.

The woman also related her activities following the murder, declaring that she did not know that she had killed Check until she saw it in a paper the next morning in Marietta. She had accompanied Jack Wilson to that city and remained with him during the night after the murder occurred. Ruby came back to Atlanta on the following day and Wilson went to Chattahoochee, she said.

Ruby Ray declared that the hold up of the Check store was planned by Gore and herself in Gore's barbershop at Buckhead and that Gore suggested that Berry would be a good one to aid them. The trio agreed that if anything happened and they got into trouble that they would lay the blame on Jack Wilson because he had escaped from a penitentiary in Michigan.

In connection with Ruby Ray's statement that she held a pistol point Dr. Fearnall West of the Acme pharmacy in West End at 455 Gordon street, in the holdup staged by herself, Gore and Berry just prior to the Check robbery and killing, Dr. Fearnall's story, as told to The Constitution, is in direct contradiction to that of the girl.

Dr. Fearnall says the person who held him up was a man about six feet tall and of heavy build.

"It could not have been Ruby Ray dressed in man's clothing," Dr. Fearnall declared. "I am positive Jack Wilson was the man who pointed the gun at me."

The statement of Mrs. Check, widow of the slain man, is in line with that told by Ruby in relating details of what she claims to have seen and acts surrounding the Peachtree road job. Mrs. Check has always said that the person who fired on her husband was small of stature, had beady eyes. This would fit Ruby, but not Wilson.

Appears Before Jury.

A few minutes before 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Solicitor Boykin sent word to the grand jury requesting that body to defer its customary noon recess until he was given the opportunity to appear before it. It is understood that Solicitor Boykin in brief told them of the conversation he had had with Ruby Ray.

Ruby was then called into the jury room by the solicitor. What occurred while she was in the grand jury room could not be ascertained, but it is believed that she reiterated her statement to that body.

It is understood that Solicitor Boykin expects to request Mrs. Check to come to the courthouse some time during today, when she will be permitted to see Ruby Ray, and to identify her son's clothing in an effort to identify the girl as the slayer of her husband. Mrs. Check stated Monday when informed of Ruby's confession that the person who fired the shots was of slight stature, somewhat effeminate, with small hands and black beady eyes. This does not fit the description of Jack Wilson, who is of robust build.

WHEN PRAYING.

BY BEN COOPER.

Milledgeville, Ga., September 14.—The angel of death, hovering over the state prison farm today ready to swoop down and bear away the soul of Mell Gore, was banished temporarily this afternoon when word from Atlanta gave notice of a stay of execution. At 2:30 o'clock, Gore left the prison in custody of Deputy Sheriff R. T. Tolbert and Charlie Griffin, for Fulton tower.

Like wildfire word spread through the state penitentiary and into Milledgeville upon receipt of the message from Atlanta stating that the supreme court had granted an eleven-hour respite to the condemned man, the state prison rejoiced with Gore.

The execution had spread a pall of horror over the entire institution.

Informed by one of his attorneys—Louis S. Maritz, of New York—of the action of the highest state courts, Gore gave Mr. Maritz a convulsive shake of the hand and exclaimed fervently: "God does answer prayer after all; doesn't He?"

A wet-eyed ring of friends and officials nodded affirmation.

Doomed Man at Prayer.

Led by the prison chaplain, Gore and his relatives and friends were praying when Mr. Maritz, his eyes alight with the happy news, entered the death cell. Conscious of the fact that he carried an answer to that very prayer, the attorney hesitated a moment until Gore, looking up, saw something in the attorney's eyes that gave him a supreme flash of hope.

Mr. Maritz nodded, and bending down to Gore, who was half reclining upon the cot in his cell, told him the good news. For a moment, Gore, unable to speak, reached out his hand and grasped Mr. Maritz's fingers, holding them in almost a vise grip.

"God does answer prayer," he exclaimed, as a group, led by Mrs. Lydia B. Saylor, Atlanta city missionary of the W. C. T. U., burst into the song "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow." There was not a dry eye in the death cell as Gore sat for a few moments and reflected upon his good luck.

"There is the only break I have had," he said simply. "I knew that God would not let me die when there is no blood upon my hands."

Commenting upon the unexpected turn in Gore's behalf, Attorney Maritz and W. A. James said: "There remains a good chance which will be handled with perfect precision, for we are given fresh opportunity to save. We will show that the people of Georgia do not believe in meeting out unequal justice. For there are not one in a hundred persons in Georgia who believe that justice will be done if Mell Gore dies alone for this crime.

Immediately upon receipt of the news of a stay of execution, electricians who had been waiting in the chamber for the fatal hour began the work of packing for the return to Atlanta and placing the electric chair mechanism back in the order in which it is kept while not in use. An undertaker's hearse in front of the prison—grim reminder of what had been scheduled for today—started back to the city.

It was a different Mell Gore who awoke this morning after a restless night. The high state of nervousness of last night had disappeared, and he seemed to be in a cheerful mood. Almost his first waking remark was that he felt something would happen today, that he would not die in the chair this afternoon.

"I don't know how it will happen, but I have a feeling that the worst will not come," he told those in the death cell. His eyes were brighter this morning, though his manner indicated that he was undergoing a terrific strain, but he did not break down.

Says Ruby's Story False.

Ruby's dramatic confession of the murder of Check was a deliberate falsehood to save him, the electric chair, Gore said this morning in a signed statement at the state prison.

"Ruby is not the 'Jack Wilson' of the Check case. She did not shoot Check, and furthermore, she was not even present on the night of the murder," Gore declared.

Gore's statement was first made in confidence about 9:30 o'clock this morning to Mrs. Saylor, Mrs. Saylor, realizing that perhaps the real truth of the Check slaying might save him from the chair, begged him to make the statement public at once so that it could be sent to the governor. Gore wrote out and signed the statement after his death, but Mrs. Saylor finally persuaded him to change his mind.

Signs Statement.

The attorneys for Gore were at once brought in, and in their presence and in the presence of other witnesses, Gore wrote out and signed the statement while still under the impression that he would die this afternoon, as no word had then been received from Atlanta.

The substance of the statement was that in order to save Ruby Ray from the same fate he faced, he was telling the real truth in the Check case, this being that Ruby Ray did not fire the fatal shot and that Jack Wilson did. A short time after the statement was finished, a message from Atlanta was received to the effect that the execution had been held up.

Gore expressed his appreciation of Ruby's effort to save him, but said that it would not have been the right thing to do to let her suffer for some one else's crime.

Hardman To Name Walker Highway Chief, Holder Says

In answer to a statement from Dr. G. Hardman published in Tuesday's papers to the effect that he had made no trade, John N. Holder, who will oppose him in the gubernatorial run-over on October 6, issued the following statement:

"Dr. Hardman rushes into print saying that he has made any 'trade' since the first primary. Who said a trade?"

"The doctor also said after the first primary that he was going to take a much-needed rest for several days. He did not prevent him from making a trade or an understanding with O. Wood in his (Wood's) office as soon as the results had been announced, nor did it prevent him from making a trade or agreement with George Carwell at the Henry Grady hotel as soon as he got through with J. O. Wood. That the doctor is a good trader, those who have 'traded' with him will know."

"The truth of the matter is that the doctor started in this campaign by trying to 'trade' with me. He offered, in the presence of John Shannon, of Commerce, to appoint me chairman of the highway board if I would go out of his majestic way and let him march on to the governorship. He circulated the ridiculous and childish rumor that I was going to appoint J. J. Brown chairman of the highway board, an utterly preposterous and unfounded statement. I said in my campaign that I had made no promises to anybody. I say it now. Can the doctor truthfully say as much?"

Says Walker Will Get Post.

"Friends in Cherokee county tell me that Dr. Hardman has stated that he is going to appoint his campaign manager chairman of the highway board. How can he do this and appoint Governor Clifford Walker also? Walker posted public men from all over Georgia are streaming into my office to tell me that Governor Walker has decided that he does not want to be chairman of the University of Georgia or head of the law school of the university, but he greatly prefers to be chairman of the highway board."

"If Dr. Hardman has no regard for the road system of Georgia, but a real appreciation for services rendered, he will appoint Governor Walker chairman of the highway board, because Governor Walker not only used his machine in this primary to aid Dr. Hardman in every possible way, but two years ago, after announcing positively that he would make the race for governor, preparing a platform and setting ready to oppose Governor Walker, Dr. Hardman suddenly decided not to make the race, thus leaving the field clear for the incumbent without opposition. That he was visited by two well-known citizens of Athens, close personal friends of the governor and escorted with them several hours the night previous to the closing of the primary, may be regarded as significant. Certainly Dr. Hardman's declining to run the last time paved the way for Governor Walker to be re-elected without opposition."

"Dr. Hardman may not like it, but he will have to tell the people of Georgia how he stands on bonds. He will have to make his position plain and unequivocal. He is going to be made to face the issue of mortgaging the future of this state by a $100,000,000 bond issue. He has stated in several of his speeches that he favored bonds for certain purposes, and the purposes he described will, at a conservative estimate, cost the state $200,000,000."

000,000 bond issue. He has stated in several of his speeches that he favored bonds for certain purposes, and the purposes he described will, at a conservative estimate, cost the state $200,000,000."

Says Bond Forces Rejoice.

"The bond advocates are proclaiming with great fervor that the result of the first primary shows that the people want bonds. The Macon News, one of the strongest pro-bond advocates, says:

"Whatever may have been the minor differences of the gubernatorial candidates on the subject of a highway bond issue, it is certain that Mr. Holder represented the out-and-out opposition to such a bond issue. It should no longer be said, therefore, that the people of Georgia are opposed to a bond issue for the purpose of completing our state system of highways."

"The great financial and construction interests, who would fatten on the people if this proposed bond issue is put over, are rejoicing that not that Wood and Carwell are out of the race, they can add their funds to the liberal supply that Dr. Hardman has and attempt to thwart the will of the people, which was plainly expressed at the last session of the Georgia legislature, when the representatives of the people voted 104 to 91 against ever submitting the question of a bond issue to the people."

"Victim of Scandal. I await Dr. Hardman's repudiation of the infamous slander his headquarters surreptitiously and at the eleventh hour circulated concerning my alleged connection with the Martin Institute and the Jefferson Cotton Mills. No voter was ever made at a public man in a race in Georgia."

"Dr. Hardman pictures himself in his advertisement as Georgia's greatest business man, as Georgia's greatest farmer, as Georgia's greatest banker, and Georgia's greatest physician. He readily admits, with becoming modesty, that all of these things are true. It is indeed marvelous that one man could have accomplished so much. Perhaps the doctor will consent to tell an eager public how he acquired these lands and how he amassed this fortune."

"It is well that the doctor began his explanations so early in the run-over primary, before any charges had been made against him at all, because he will be kept continually explaining until October 6."

SHIPPING, CARRIER RELATIONS PRAISED BY JAMES A. PERRY

A large attendance of Atlanta shippers and carrier representative featured the September luncheon meeting of the Traffic Club of Atlanta at noon Tuesday in the new Atlanta Athletic club. After musical selections by an orchestra during the meal, President J. A. Streyer introduced the principal speaker of the day, James A. Perry, chairman of the public service commission.

Mr. Perry emphasized the continued growth of cordial relations between shipping and carrier interests, expressing his belief that the splendid business situation in America today had been helped along by the cooperative spirit exhibited on every hand since the close of the world war and in this Traffic club of the country had performed their part toward bringing about amicable relations and a better understanding in both industrial and railroad viewpoints.

CRISP COUNTY TO START FIGHT FOR POWER DAM

Cordle, Ga., September 14.—(Special.)—Plans are complete for a meeting tonight at the Suwanee hotel at which the fight for the Crisp county hydroelectric power dam on Flint river will be launched.

At this meeting E. S. Killebrew, hydro-electric engineer now engaged in construction of several power plants will be a speaker.

John W. Greer of Douglas, the man who was secretary of the local county board of trade when the movement was first inaugurated three years ago, will also be a speaker and others will aid in making the power meeting a most important one.

Crisp county's amendment will go before the people for approval along with Woodrow Wilson College in Valdosta and the Chattahoochee river and two other similar projects in the November election. At the same time Crisp voters will approve the issue of bonds amounting to $1,250,000 for the plant and extension lines. This will clear the way and make it possible to go forward with the work of building.

FIFTH WARD LEAGUE TO HEAR CANDIDATES

pression that a balance appearing against the county treasury means a "deficit" is wholly erroneous. It only means that for continuity of operations the county has temporarily anticipated its sure resources. That, in the circumstances, is absolutely wise business management. Fulton county walks on easy street. She carries not a dollar of bonded debt burden. She conducts her public functions both liberally and with judicious economy. She has more hard paved, high-class roads than any county of her population in all America. Her record invites strongly the confidence of her citizens and constitutes her most attractive advertisement to the enterprisers and homeseekers of the continent.

GLAD FOR GEORGE.
Forward-looking Georgians will be gratified by the welcome given to the renomination of Senator Walter F. George by leading journals of the nation, irrespective of party. It is a signal instance of public appreciation of a senator who, in an ad interim service, has attracted national study and valuation. By modest, intelligent and able conduct in that high legislature Senator George has quickly won the reliant confidence of all his colleagues and an unusual respect from all observers of congressional transactions. As an example of the compliments paid to Senator George by metropolitan newspapers is this from the editorial columns of The New York Times:

"The renomination of Senator George by the Georgia democrats honors their good sense. It shows that they know how to value the public man who depends upon intellect, not emotional elaptrap. In less than four years at Washington, Mr. George has made himself one of the most respected figures in the senate. On legal and constitutional questions he has shown learning, penetration, grasp of principles; on most questions breadth of mind and a certain impartial way of looking at things. His long service on the bench may have bred in him the habit of investigation, of clear thought and patient weighing of the evidence. At any rate, his mental equipment places him among the first men of the senate."

Georgians who are familiar, by reading and hearing, with the prestige the state had in the senate in other generations, will rejoice that she is regaining by those who now represent her there.

The people of the state are looking more seriously than for years past to the solid abilities of their national representatives. Demagoguery, flub-dub and hill-billy stuff have been heavily rebuffed in recent decisions by the voters of Georgia. There is evidence enough to warrant the belief that henceforth to gain power with Georgians a man must have intellectual and spiritual power within himself. They have found such a man in Senator George and for some time to come will measure others by him.

GROWING ATLANTA.
The Industrial Index of Columbus, Ga., in its issue of September 8, has the following leading editorial:

"The Atlanta Constitution in its grave pictorial section of last Sunday published two large photographs showing in a striking way, through comparison, the remarkable development in one of the sections in Atlanta's business area."

"The area photographed is bounded on the east by Peachtree street and on the south by Carnegie way. The building and development in that comparatively limited section during the past two or three years has been so remarkable as to be outstanding even in the record of such a wonderful city as Atlanta."

"One photograph shows this section as it was three years ago; the other picture is a recent view."

"This one photograph shows several million dollars of new construction and vividly illustrates the growth of Atlanta."

The block referred to is the old "governor's mansion site" square, and its development has been marvelous and outstanding in Atlanta's wonderful growth.

At the same time the Industrial Index could have made reference to dozens of other blocks in Atlanta that are being completely rebuilt in the same way.

All over Atlanta, on the north side, south side, east side, west side—everywhere—there is a building program unequalled in the city's history.

Atlanta is growing—growing fast and growing soundly.

In spite of politics, The Albany Herald notes that "the average citizen is attending to business as usual." And that's what makes for prosperity.

Though the boll weevil is still a menace to cotton, the federal prohibition sleuths are doing what they can to keep the thirsty man from drinking up the corn crop.

Many of the autumn authors are bound in gold, but it is doubtful if their pockets are lined with it.

Song of the Savannah.
I.
How sweet Savannah is murmuring
Adown the hills of green
As her waters flow along
Her flowery banks be have
How blest to hear her o'er
The music of her strain
Where wild birds down her magic shore
Join in the glad refrain.

II.
The logged rocks and hills rejoice
To hear her active lays
And yielding to her siren voice
Rebound with joy and praise:
And bid the wandering winds repeat
In notes almost divine,
Her artless anthems, soft and sweet,
To vale and dale and pine.

III.
There sunset sheds its fairest glow
Upon her bosom calm,
And dances on her dimpled flow
Attracted by her charm:
There beauty to the heart may bring
A lasting peace serene,
Where sweet Savannah's waters sing:
Her flowery banks between.

FUNERAL THURSDAY FOR JACOB M. DIESOR
Funeral services for Jacob Morris Diesor, 71, of 1 Battery place, who died Tuesday afternoon, will be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the chapel of Greenberg and Bond. The Rev. J. C. Coward, of the First Baptist church, will officiate and interment will be in Crestview cemetery.

Mr. Diesor was a resident of Atlanta for more than 40 years, during which time he was connected with a wholesale meat business. He was born in Germany, June 27, 1855. He came to Atlanta when he was 16 years old and married Miss Maggie Young, of this city in 1880.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1926.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK
BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

New York, September 14.—Well, the boys are quietly giggling, and not so quietly either, my agent wouldn't have become privy to this choice morsel of chit-chat, over a well-known matinee hero and his butinsky and equally well-known manager. A few weeks ago our hero opened a new show and for a while all was well. The show prospered immediately and the manager began to look at specifications for a new yacht to help out the general scheme of his Miami management which he planned to open in January when the show figured to be in its fifth fat month. Suddenly things began to go sour and the eagle-eyed manager, searching for the weak spot, decided that his pale blonde star was the hinge upon which the disaster of the performance was ominously starting to swing.

The gentleman in point began to stutter, grow absent-minded, forget his lines, and on three separate occasions neglected to put in an appearance at the theater when he was due to start the performance. Also, we regret to state, he started to drink—not very violently, but with a quiet, moderate little technique that rendered him in a constant state of inebriated ineffectiveness. An understudy filled in when he stayed away from the show altogether but three quick changes started to put the brakes on the lathered gratifying clatter of cash in the box office. The distracted manager, driven to desperation by his major attraction's antics, decided on a campaign of eagerness to arrive at the root of all the evil.

In a flagrant and oily manner the box office baron started to get together with the high-priced star. Instead of heading him out and creating scenes to drive the actor back to the path of rectitude and duty, he grew suddenly sympathetic and indicated that it was a hard world and even a popular genius like so and so was liable to find the going a bit rough in spots. He began to apply the open, oily palm of persuasion instead of the horny fist of anger. The actor was sufficiently sober to be impressed with the naïve of the other's system and gradually but consciously fell into his employer's elaborate scheme, a scheme tainted enough with the dreams of avarice to be interesting, and its inevitable style of cramping consequences was his main worry.

So he faced a horrible dilemma either to carry on with both girls, or leave them both over and be even more harassed than he was. If he continued along as he had been doing he would be bored to death, and if he gently nudged them out of the way, he would find that his pals he was sunk, surely, and would be even more worried than before. In answer to the question of what he should do, he decided on the double-barreled word "confidant" that he still continued a hollow-hearted correspondence with both girls—his confidants in the matter of affection and making secret engagements languidly fulfilled.

The manager told the star not to worry that there would surely be a way out of his troubles, and began a daily series of morning calls at the other's apartment. One day he came in to find the manager's friend finishing a letter, turn it over to him, address an envelope, and stick the letter in without sealing it. The actor then wrote another letter, addressed an envelope for it, and threw it face down on the table. The manager picked it up, called him out of the room. When he had gone, the manager reached over and quickly transcribed the contents of the letter, putting both in the wrong envelopes.

Out on the street the impresario, gloating with victory, watched the star mail both letters and then turned to him with pride. "Well I just done you a good turn," he announced pompously. "I switched 'em two letters when you were asleep, and now both gals'll feel so cheap, none of 'em'll bother you any more."

"Like hell they won't!" returned the other, starting to swoon. "One of those letters was to the brunette but the other one was addressed to my wife!"

CONSIDERATION FOR OTHERS.
Consideration for others is the everyday habit of a Christian gentleman or gentlewoman.

No one could equal our Master, Jesus, in this virtue which is so necessary to living pleasantly in daily intimate relations with another.

The tactful consideration of His Master, not only saves him from embarrassment, but supplies him beyond what the discipline might have imagined as for his needs.

Off the Reel
The War We Had With Mexico
BY SAM W. SMALL.

It is somewhat difficult to realize that 79 years ago, September 15, 1847, my father, then but 20 years old, was marching in under General Winfield Scott into the city of Mexico.

The final battle of the war with that republic had been fought the day before and the Mexicans were now ready to admit their total defeat.

There had been great opposition to the annexation of Texas to the United States. There had been great opposition to the annexation of Texas to the United States. There had been great opposition to the annexation of Texas to the United States.

The Mexicans, in view of the divided sentiment in these states, believed they could recover Texas because the northern states would not consent to fight for its retention.

Consequently Mexico was able to get the Texas territory between the Rio Grande and the Nueces rivers and undertook to occupy it with an army.

THE FEDERAL PAROLE LAW.
The parole law, enacted by congress, has been in effect for some time. It is a law that has been in effect for some time. It is a law that has been in effect for some time.

There was yet hope, he figured, as he listened to the other's continued tale of secret meetings, devious co-plotting, and wear and tear on the nub of his story. A matter that afforded the strategist great rejoicing while at the same time explaining his own "chickie" horrible predicament. Briefly, the lad with the golden locks and the sky blue eyes was getting bored with both of his sweethearts and he hated to throw them overboard, feeling the disastrous consequences that would inevitably involve vigorous pursuit methods now so favored by young ladies in fashion in the year 1926. Particularly if their not so accidental love is a popular actor, the pursuit business, moaned the star, and the inevitable style of cramping consequences was his main worry.

A Case of Great Sorrow.
The news of the arrest and indictment of the Jones brothers was not only an almost incredible thing to their young ladies, but it was a source of great astonishment and sorrow by thousands of the latter's friends from coast to coast.

Dr. Jones can never believe that his sons knowingly and intentionally committed the crime and their heart-crushed mother knows in her soul that they are not guilty—for he is the m of God-forsaken of all wretches who has been found guilty in his mother's heart!

Those who have known Dr. Jones lowest and best esteem him as a man of the clearest Christian character and impeccable honor. The writer has known him for forty years and for him as high regard as for the men of his acquaintance. In every circle, church and official, the deepest sympathy is given to him and his estimable wife.

It is for their sakes that so many eminent men have joined in asking paroles for their imprisoned sons.

What the Parole Law Requires.
That those who are asking and those protesting the paroles may know what the parole law, enacted by congress, requires in such cases, the following statements of its provisions will be informing:

This present parole law of congress was approved June 23, 1917, and it under it every prisoner confined in a United States penitentiary or prison for a term of over one year, "whose record in such cases, the following statements of its provisions will be informing:

The parole board in each federal prison is composed of the federal superintendent of prisons and the members of the board of the particular prison.

"If it shall appear to such board of parole from a report by the proper authorities, or upon application by a prisoner for release on parole, that there is reasonable probability that such applicant will live and conduct himself without violating the laws; and if in the opinion of the board such release is not incompatible with the welfare of society, the board may, in its discretion, authorize the release of such applicant on parole," but the decision of the board must be approved by the attorney general of the United States before becoming effective.

Also the applicant must have been continuously in the first or highest grade of such prison, and must have been in such grade for at least six months, and must have been in such grade for at least six months, and must have been in such grade for at least six months.

No Attorney's or Oral Pleas.
In regard to the question of influence or efforts made on behalf of prisoners to bring about parole, the law provides for the rule of parole as follows: "No attorney shall be heard in behalf of any applicant nor shall any oral argument be allowed."

Each prisoner in monthly reports must furnish the parole board with a statement of his general conduct and associations; name of his employer; nature of occupation or business; number of days employed; reasons for not being employed; amount of money received; amount expended; and details as to postoffice address or possible change in address.

Their Best Hope.
In view of the fact that the Jones brothers have been in the federal prison since June 14, while a third of their term would be eight months, six of which must be as prisoners of the first grade, the probability of their parole board finding for them is a very scant one. Their best hope would be in a direct appeal to the president for a pardon or a commutation to the time served.

It is more than likely that their case will take that course.

MAN IS INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION
Alonso T. Ansley, 32, of 910 Alameda avenue, was badly bruised and skinned about the hips and shoulders when he was in a collision at Belmont avenue and Harris street between a light coupe, in which he was riding with the driver, E. M. Boswell, of 910 Alameda, and a Buick sedan, owned and driven by D. M. Lewis, of East Point, according to police reports.

Ansley was taken to the Grady hospital for treatment for his injuries. Charges of reckless driving will be preferred against the drivers of both cars, Patrolmen Brice and Lowe reported.

The pensioner of pensions it appears that on June 30, last, there were still on the rolls nine veterans of the Mexican war, eight having died in the previous year. There were also 1,080 widows of such veterans on the pension rolls, showing great activity in the war.

City Candidates Address Voters of East Atlanta

Many Aspirants For Various Offices Speak at Rally in John B. Gordon School.

Before a crowd that filled the auditorium of the John B. Gordon school in East Atlanta to capacity five candidates for mayor and several candidates for aldermanic positions, posts as recorder and for seats in council, Tuesday night, discussed their views of the issues in the campaign.

J. N. Ragsdale, candidate for mayor, was the first of the mayoral aspirants presented to the crowd by Leo Sunderth, who presided at the meeting.

Mr. Ragsdale prepared his brief talk with an expression of appreciation of the support he has received in previous campaigns from the people of the eleventh ward.

Money To Be Spent.
"There is no use of my making a long speech to you people out here in this ward," he said. "You probably know more about me and my ability and experience to fill the mayor's chair than I know myself. I do want to say to you that the next mayor of Atlanta will face an important epoch in the growth of this city. There is a vast amount of money that is to be spent by the city in the next few years and this expenditure should be supervised carefully with the use of good business judgment if the city is to be able to handle the money that is to be spent."

Discussing briefly other phases of the situation Mr. Ragsdale declared he believed city employees should be paid fairly for their services and when they achieved worth-while things they should receive the proper compensation.

"In my own business I have found that it is wise to recognize good service by loyal and faithful employees and I believe such recognition by the city of Atlanta will get as good results as any other policy," he said.

Ford Speaks Next.
Charles M. Ford was the next candidate for mayor to be introduced. He reviewed his record as alderman. He said he had served on the water committee, finance committee and board of firemasters. He said he was not running on the weakness of any of the other candidates but was running squarely on his record for service.

Following Mr. Ford the next candidate for mayor to speak was Dr. I. N. Huff. He told of services he had rendered Atlanta in an official capacity and spoke of the fight he had waged for lower gas rates. Dr. Huff denied reports that he was not a sincere candidate for mayor. He said he had heard it circulated that he would not serve as mayor if elected.

R. A. Gordon was the next speaker and told of his early history in Spanish county, his entry into business and of his 20 years' record in Atlanta. He said everybody in Griffin who knew him had heard it circulated that he would not serve as mayor if elected.

Has Made Success.
"I have lived in Atlanta 21 years. You all know my late father-in-law. When the great Atlanta fire destroyed the homes of numerous people I cancelled all debts owed my family and company and started over again. I have made a success of my business and I believe I can make a success of your business."

Other speakers were J. C. Murphy and Foster Hunter, candidates for alderman from the eleventh ward; William Johnson and George Lyle, candidates for council; C. Don Miller and John Cone, candidates for recorder.

OFFICERS OF 122D HONOR COL. DARRAH

Colonel Thomas W. Darrah, chief of staff of the fourth corps area for the last three years, will be the honor guest today of officers of the 122d infantry, national guard, at a luncheon at the Ansley hotel.

Colonel Darrah recently received orders transferring him to command of the 5th regiment of infantry at Fort Eustis, Va., and is expected to leave for his new post within the coming few days.

The luncheon today, officers of the local national guard regiment explained, "is to show Colonel Darrah some measure of the good will and esteem in which he is held by 'Atlanta's Own Outfit.' It will be held in the Rainbow room of the Ansley hotel at 12:30 o'clock and brief talks will be made by officers expressing appreciation of Colonel Darrah's services to the regiment. Adjutant General Charles H. Cox will preside. The luncheon and will be in general charge of program features.

SAFETY COUNCIL TO DISCUSS AUTO DRIVER LICENSE

A meeting of the Atlanta Safety Council will be held at noon today, at the Ansley hotel. Plans for the proposed bureau to examine automobile drivers and issue licenses to acceptable drivers will be discussed according to George Doherty, secretary of the council.

I. N. Ragsdale, John A. White, councilman from the fourth ward who will introduce the plan in council; Frank Hooper, Jr., member of the Fulton county delegation in the legislature, and J. Allen Couch, R. A. Gordon, Charles M. Ford and L. N. Huff have been invited to attend the meeting Friday and discuss the plan. In commenting on the proposed bureau Mr. Doherty said that "the safety council has advocated the creation of a bureau to issue licenses to drivers, and I am glad to see that sentiment is crystallizing in Atlanta to such an end." He cited five Georgia cities in which similar bureaus were successfully functioning. These are Savannah, Macon, Columbus, Augusta and Albany.

CONSOLIDATED VOTE OF GEORGIA COUNTIES

Complete consolidated returns from the 161 counties of the state filed with Mrs. Bessie Anderson, secretary of the Georgia democratic executive committee, revealed today that Walter F. George, incumbent, received 127,883 popular votes as against 81,561 for his opponent, Richard B. Russell. Records of the gubernatorial race disclosed 71,225 popular votes for John N. Holder; 67,617 for L. G. Hardman; 32,584 for George H. Carswell, and 21,215 for J. O. Wood.

The compilation of popular votes for other candidates contesting for state offices follow: Attorney general, J. Herman Miller, 62,492; George M. Napier, 131,891. Commissioner of agriculture, J. J. Brown, 72,464; Eugene Talmadge, 129,613. State superintendent of schools, N. H. Ballard, 81,960; Fort E. Land, 112,090. Commissioner of pensions, W. Sam Askey, 68,048; John W. Clark, 119,421. Public service commissioner, (to succeed Paul Trammell), W. R. Frier, 40,113; Albert J. Woodruff, 138,120. Public service commissioner (to succeed J. D. Priest), C. W. Landford, 92,337; Calvin W. Parker, 95,698. Associate justice of the supreme court, R. E. Eve, 61,617; James K. Hines, 117,655. Judge court of appeals, J. P. Highsmith, 71,126; Alex W. Stephens, 115,064.

MadameChernoff Explains Secrets Of Being Young

"We have old women no more. We have women who have birthdays, yes, but they do not celebrate them. Rather, they celebrate the anniversary of their birth, instead. They refuse to discuss age."

Every woman whether parent, housewife, business woman, society matron, or aspirant for political work, will be highly interested in Madame Chernoff's series of lectures this week in the lecture room of M. Rich & Bros. company. Mme. Chernoff has been talking to crowded houses in most of the leading cities all over the United States. Her lectures are so popular that "How to remove unpleasant conditions that might surround you." Her work is largely psychological. She speaks in an inspiring manner and shows how to get what is wanted—whether it is love of friends, or money, or a business achievement.

Madame Chernoff has been writing for leading publications all over the country for over fourteen years. She is a living demonstration of the principles she teaches. Her aim is to help women attain their aspirations and to bear her is to love her for the good work she does, it is said.

The Los Angeles Times says "A word about Madame Chernoff—whether she is 15 or 40 years old, one could never guess. Her complexion is flawless, the texture of her skin fine."

COST OF RUNOVER IN SOME COUNTIES UP TO CANDIDATES

Funds for the run-over primaries for governor, to be held on October 6, will have to be contributed by volunteers in those counties where the executive committees are without means of defraying the necessary expenses, it was stated Tuesday by members of the state democratic executive committee.

Hiram Gardner, of Eatonton, assistant secretary of the state committee, pointed out a defect in the Null primary law, which makes it mandatory for the county executive committees to hold run-over primaries, but does not provide any funds for their conduct. He declared that the only way out of the present situation is for the friends of the two candidates, John N. Holder and Dr. L. G. Hardman, to conduct the primary without charging for their services, in counties where no funds are available.

A. J. ORME ADDRESSES ROTARIAN LUNCHEON

A. J. Orme, vice president of the Atlanta Trust company, was principal speaker at the regular Tuesday luncheon of the Rotary club at the Capital City club. His topic was "The Application of a Citizen to His City," and the address concerned the city government of Atlanta and its workings.

A report of the work of the "big brother" committee was rendered by H. D. Oliver. The meeting was presided over by H. B. Wade, vice president in the absence of President Robert Parker.

"MY LIFE STORY"

Written by Rudolph Valentino

Rudolph Valentino as he appeared while writing the memoirs of his fascinating career of adventure and romance for the Macfadden Publications.

Rudolph Valentino in his life writes, thrilling installment of his life memoirs of Paris and his honeymoon with the lovely Natacha Rambova. "If I should ever be called upon to give advice to a plain woman," he writes, "I should advise her to spend some time in Paris." He describes the manikins at the shop of M. Poiret, famous couturier, where he chose Natacha's gowns. He reveals secrets of his mail from women and their pleas for "Beauty Hint," so they could be more beautiful in his eyes. His narrative teems with heart interest and frankness. You almost feel you were along with the "Master Lover" of all time on his vacation of love.

INSTALLMENT XI.

(Copyright, 1928, by The Constitution.) These days of ours—Natacha and I—in Paris are to be like bright beads, strung on the thread of memory, one after the other. Each one translucent and glittering. Each one perfect and many-faceted.

Natacha agrees with me. Paris is like the light wine of the country to women. It tinges them with romance and expectation. It lays upon the feminine shoulders a delicate lace of poetry.

The first thing I had to do here in Paris was to buy an automobile, because the rest of our route lies by way of the motor-method.

From here we plan to motor to Nice, where Natacha's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Hudout, have purchased the Chateau Juan Les Pins.

Buying Autos and Gowns. I looked at 17 makes of cars, and finally bought two from the Voisin people. I intend to keep them over here, to use when I come back, as I shall some day in between pictures. I ordered an open car for my own use, and a closed car for Natacha.

Natacha remained patient with a marvelous degree of fortitude during "the travel of the cars," as we called it, but when we were finally fixed at Voisin, she sighed, "Now for Poiret!"

It flatters me that Natacha, with her exquisite and unerring good taste and discrimination, would not go to Poiret without me.

"No, Rudy, darling," she said to me, "I want you to choose my gowns."

When she said that, I thought to myself that that pretty well proved the frequently argued fact as to whether women dress for men—or for other women. If women are truly feminine I believe that they dress for men.

At last we reach M. Poiret. He is the one couturier in Paris best suited to Natacha's style—even temperament. We went to one of two other places and looked at their models, but the most part they were wishy-washy things of pastel shades, with oddments of flowers here and there.

Natacha cannot wear that sort of thing. She's not at all the type. She looks best in vivid colors, no one color over another, but all colors that are violent and definite. Scarlets, purples, strong blues, emphatic greens, loud-voiced yellows, blazing purples.

I will not give Natacha away even in the private page of my diary by saying what time, how much of it, we spent with M. Poiret. But I will admit that it was quite as fascinating to me as I knew it was to Natacha.

Perhaps part of the fascination for me consisted in the love light in Natacha's eyes when she said upon something, "as they say in America, that she knew unerringly belonged to her. M. Poiret commended us both upon our selections and told us that he would have selected quite the same himself, had the matter been left wholly in his hands.

Hints for Beauties. To me, it is like seeing a beautiful woman in a garden of beautiful flowers, when I watch one selecting gowns in a shop such as M. Poiret's. They finger over the fabric, over the color, with delicate deliberation, the consummate skill, the scented instinct of a woman breathing out flowers, uttering soft exclamations of a soft delight when one particular one meets and enchants her eye.

It is a talent, a genius, or the cultivation of an instinct that all women who desire to be beautiful (and what woman does not?) should have.

So many times my letters from fans ask me what I would suggest by way of "Beauty Hints."

I smile a little at these. Such funny things to ask a man. And yet not so funny, either, for, after all, it is true that a man in my profession must train his eye and his taste to the discerning of what is beautiful and what is not in women.

He must know, I must know, whether a woman is fully governed or not. A picture might well be thrown out of focus, artistically and poetically at least, if there were unbecoming gowned women in it.

I have never answered any of these questions on beauty hints or otherwise, because I felt that there are so many better equipped than I to answer them.

But merely from a man's point of view.

WOMEN SUPPORTERS
NOT 'PAID WORKERS,' DECLARES GORDON

"It is to be deplored that Mr. Ragsdale should allow a single statement to be uttered at his meeting which would in any manner reflect upon any group of women," declared R. A. Gordon, mayoralty candidate, in discussing the charge made by Alderman Guy Dobbs at a meeting of the Ragsdale supporters Monday night, in which Mr. Dobbs referred to the members of the woman's citizen committee in disparaging Mr. Gordon's candidacy "paid workers."

"It is true that I have associated with a few women who are giving their entire time to doing clerical work, telephoning and the like. But so is Mr. Ragsdale employing women for this purpose, and so does every other candidate, and it is utterly untrue that the woman's citizen committee is a group of my paid workers. There are several hundred members, a great many of them in Mr. Ragsdale's and Mr. Dobbs' own wards, who are giving of their time and effort and not receiving one cent. They are splendid, influential and religious women, who have supported me from the very beginning.

"I consider it more of an affront to these women than a personal attack on me, and judging from the numerous telephone calls and visits to my headquarters, which have come from every section of the city, the women are deeply resentful and indignant over this attack."

PHONE RATE CHANGE HEARING DATE SET

Hearing on the petition of the Southern Bell Telephone company for revision of certain long distance toll rates was set for Tuesday, September 21, at the meeting of the Georgia public service commission Tuesday, according to James A. Perry, chairman.

Revisions asked in the telephone company's petition will affect station to station calls between 8:30 p. m. and 4:30 a. m., on which charges will amount to about 50 per cent of the day rates on station to station calls. Increases on night rates will amount to about five to ten cents a call if provisions in the petition are allowed, it was explained. At the same time a change will be made so as to permit charges on station to station calls to be reversed, which cannot be done under the present system.

All proposed revisions are to apply to calls between distances not less than 36 miles and not more than 80 miles. A reduction in toll rates on station to station calls made between 7 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. also were provided for in the company's petition. Calls made during this period would cost 25 per cent less than day rates, it is set out.

The commission set Wednesday, September 22, as a date for holding a conference of Georgia law and lumber interests to determine plans for pushing the application of the Georgia commission before the interstate commerce commission for a revision of rates on logs between Georgia and Florida points, according to an announcement made by Chairman Perry.

The commission approved a petition filed by the Ashburn Telephone company for permission to increase its rates. The petition was granted upon the condition that the company spend several thousand dollars in improvements and is not to be effective until these improvements are completed.

Several other minor routine cases were decided by the commission.

AIMEE M'PHERSON ADMITS SHE PAID MONEY FOR HOAX

Los Angeles, September 14.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, today admitted that she had paid money to Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sieff in an effort to obtain evidence to disprove reports that she occupied a cottage at Carmel, Calif., with a man identified as Kenneth G. Ormiston, following her alleged kidnapping last May.

The evangelist's statement was in reply to charges by Mrs. Wiseman-Sieff that her story that a "Miss X" and not Mrs. McPherson occupied the cottage was a hoax engineered by Mrs. McPherson.

ST. PHILIP'S CHOIR BUSY PLANNING FALL PROGRAM

With the return of Miss Grace Chalmers Thomson, organist and choir master of St. Philip's Episcopal cathedral, from a vacation spent in the mountains of North Carolina, enrollment for the year has been opened in both the junior and senior cathedral choirs. The senior choir is one of the oldest and best-known musical organizations in Atlanta, and under the direction of Miss Thomson, the junior choir is rapidly gaining prominence.

The Turner Plan of Home Ownership

actually cheaper than Renting

The Turner Plan Is a Wonderful New Idea in Home Financing That Places a Home Within Your Grasp—NOW!

FOR fifteen years J. L. Turner has been dreaming of, and working on, a revolutionary plan of home financing. It was his aim to make it possible for the man who has little accumulated capital to own a home.

Today the Turner Plan is complete and the terms that it offers to the home loving family are unprecedented in their liberality.

No great amount of capital is required—as little as $200.00 will start you on your way to home ownership.

No "ready made houses" are offered—you plan your own home and Turner builds it according to your wishes and the Turner scientific home building principles.

No heavy monthly payments are exacted—the amounts of the monthly payments can be fixed at a sum actually lower than your present rent, if you are paying $60.00 or more to the landlord.

The plan doesn't call for home ownership in some out-of-the-way development, but gives you a home right in the heart of residential Atlanta, in that glorious one-mile strip of land that lies between Morningstar and Druid Hills. Here you will always be surrounded by the most exclusive beauty spots in the city and be bounded by the estates of millionaires. You'll have all city conveniences, including gas.

There are only two reservations which Mr. Turner makes: First, everyone who is offered this plan must be sincere in his desire to own a home. No speculators will, under any circumstances, be allowed to take advantage of the liberal terms of this offering for the profit which is almost inevitable. Furthermore, no houses will be built which are not erected according to "Turner Specifications," which scientifically insure the owner against inferiority. Masonry walls neither rot nor burn.

You've just signed one September lease; don't ever sign another. You've been buying houses for years and letting the landlords get the deeds. Decide, right now, that the next house you buy, you'll own. The offering is almost good to be true. If you wish a home of your own (and what man or woman with red blood doesn't?)—Investigate! Get the full details. Judge the remarkable offering with complete information before you.

The coupon will bring you all of the data about the Turner Plan of Home Ownership, or you can call at our office and let us tell you the intensely interesting facts about the plan.

NEW COVERS PLACED ON SANITARY TRUCKS

With the placing in service of 20 new covers over sanitary trucks in Atlanta Tuesday morning, the civic committee of the Atlanta Women's club laid plans at its Tuesday meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building to war on loose paper in the city, and urged every citizen of the city to further cooperate in a general clean-up campaign now under way.

Several weeks ago members of the committee urged that covers be placed over the city sanitary trucks. Twenty more will be placed in service before the end of the week it was announced by Chief Denton at the meeting.

Much enthusiasm was shown over the work accomplished in the first district. Mrs. W. B. Duvall and Mrs. Ed. Wachendorf, co-chairmen, announced that the entire district would be completed by Saturday night. They urged every citizen of their district to cooperate in the campaign. They state that to make the district clean, the weeds must be cut in the front yards, back yards and from the sidewalk and raked and put in piles at the corners of the lots where it is convenient for the sanitary department.

Mrs. Duvall further states that since the ward is having all garbage and debris cleared away, they are asking those who have not the five-gallon air-tight covered metal garbage container to provide themselves with this can as required by the sanitary department.

Miss Elizabeth Young, chairman of the seventh ward, which is part of the first district, said that the slogan was "when we get clean, we will stay clean."

WOMAN BRUTALLY BEATEN IN HOME

worked on the theory that the slain woman refused—despite torturing methods employed by her slayer—to divulge the hiding place of the money. This theory of robbery later was discarded altogether, according to Policeman Davis.

BELIEVE CRIMINAL WHITE.

When discovered, Miss Tumlin's body lay in several big pools of blood on the floor of the isolated little home, which is removed about 100 yards from the settlement at Moore's Mill and Howell Mill roads. Three footprints evidently made by a white man, police said—were outlined in the floor in blood. Officers judged that the footprints were made by a man because of their size, and they were of the opinion they were a white man's footprints because of the pronounced height of the arch of the foot, a characteristic they said was rarely found among negroes. At the time the prints were made the man was in his sick bed.

The prints led from the bed where

Miss Tumlin had been sleeping to a trunk in the corner of the room, and police believed for a time the woman's assailant had tied the satin ribbon about her neck and was applying pressure to her throat in an effort to force an admission from her that the money was secreted in the trunk.

Though neighbors heard no screams and saw nothing suspicious about the home during the day, it is regarded as entirely possible that the woman was beaten and choked for some time before her death.

Blood-Smeared Bucket. A bucket that hung in the well about 50 feet back of the house was smeared with bloody finger prints, and a cow in a barn directly behind the well refused all day to drink any of the water in its trough. Whether the slayer washed his hands at the well and polluted the cow's water was not known, but police directed that no one go near the trough until today's light gives them an opportunity to examine this feature of the case.

Coroner Paul Donohoe, who visited the scene of the crime early Tuesday night, took charge of the well bucket with a view to securing finger prints. According to tentative plans announced Tuesday night by Coroner Donohoe, an inquest will be held at the body at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole.

An examination of the body of the dead woman at the undertaking establishment showed two deep lacerations on the scalp, just over the parietal bones, and a discolored spot between the shoulders indicated that she had received a severe blow at that spot.

The strip of black satin, about four inches wide, that had been tied securely about her throat and knotted tightly at the back of the neck, was sufficiently taut to have produced death from strangulation, it was said.

The body, especially the upper portion, was covered with congealed blood and it was so thickly matted in her hair and about the eyes that it was necessary to remove it before undertakers were able to tell much about her features.

The body, according to the ambulance driver and employees of Mr. Poole, was found near the foot of the bed. Bedclothes and furnishings in the room had been considerably disturbed, probably from the scuffle which ensued when the woman sought to fight off her assailant.

Kept Much Money.

Miss Tumlin, it was learned from neighbors and friends, was in the habit of keeping large sums of money about the house. Part of the money, it was said, belonged to her, and in addition, her brother is said to have placed a considerable part of his earnings in her care. Police believe the crime was committed just before or at dawn Tuesday morning, immediately after the brother left the house for his work and that it was the work of some man who knew the brother and sister, the arrangement of the house and the habits of its occupants.

The dead woman's bedroom has three windows, one opening on a porch and two on the side of the house. A door opens from the bedroom onto a porch, back of which is located the well.

No trace of the heavy instrument with which the would-be robber crushed the skull of his victim had been found late Tuesday night, and it was apparent that the weapon had been taken away by the slayer. The head of a heavy sledge hammer was found near the dead body and it was reported at first that blood stains were found on it. This later proved to be erroneous and officers said the hammer played no part in the killing.

Theory of Torture.

Strength was added to the theory that Miss Tumlin first was tortured by the fact that the body was found on the floor of the bedroom. This gleamed redly on the pillow, while on the floor all about were signs of the ghastly struggle. The theory of torture was of the opinion that the murderer, after waking his victim, dragged her from the bed; choked her with the ribbon; twisted and about the throat; buried her and there about the house and finally clubbed her to death when she refused to tell.

Articles of clothing were scattered about the room, and the drawers were ransacked and their contents piled high on the floor, and many articles of furniture were overturned.

The tiny rural settlement in the vicinity of Howell Mill and Moore's Mill roads—about three miles beyond the end of Howell Mill road—was intensely excited Tuesday night, and hundreds of friends and acquaintances of Miss Tumlin flocked to the scene of the killing, their number being swelled by those who were drawn to the spot out of curiosity.

Chief of Police George Matheson, of the county, closed the crowd, and operations, and a full squad of investigators was at work. No clues were found, however, and no arrests had been made at midnight.

Desk Sergeant Ora Head, head of the Fulton county police ordered out a posse of county police as soon as he was notified of the ghastly discovery.

Miss Tumlin is survived by one sister, Miss Arle Davis; four brothers, G. T. J. J. and G. C. Tumlin, of Atlanta, and W. L. Tumlin, of Miami, Florida.

RUSSELL LAYS PLANS FOR SPEAKER'S RACE

Richard B. Russell, Jr., of Barrow county, definitely announced his candidacy for speaker of the 1927-1928 house of representatives of Georgia after a meeting of his friends and supporters held Tuesday night in a local hotel. Mr. Russell has been a member of the house of representatives for eight years and has held the office for speaker pro tem, for four years.

Mr. Russell stated he has 81 pledges for support and that an active campaign will be commenced at once to swell this total to 101, the number required to elect.

Other probable candidates are Rev. V. Harris, of Jefferson, and J. W. Culpepper, of Fayette. W. Cecil Neill, former speaker, who returns to legislature from Muscogee county, has announced definitely he will not be a candidate for speaker at the next session.

BOND DESCENDANTS TO HOLD REUNION

Descendants of Joseph Ballenger Bond and his wife Sara Baker Bond, will hold an annual reunion today at Rock Chapel near Lithonia. It was announced Tuesday afternoon Joseph B. Bond, of Rock Chapel, is in charge of arrangements. Mr. and Mrs. Bond came to DeKalb county in 1833 from Virginia.

The lineage extends into the following well-known families of DeKalb and Fulton counties: Almond, Abraham, Bennett, Braxwell, Chapp, George, Evans, Floyd, Goddard, Matthews, Marbut, Minor, Nash, Phillips, Rogers, Suber, Tucker, Sorrow and Simmons and relatives of those families are requested to be present at the reunion today.

LIONS HEAR SPEECH BY DR. GEORGE BROWN

Dr. George Brown, one of the leading physicians of Atlanta and one of the first presidents of the national Anti-Tuberculosis society, was the principal speaker at the regular Tuesday luncheon of the Lions club, held at the Ansley hotel.

Dr. Brown spoke on the possibility of installing the ultra-violet ray machines in the different institutions of the country to aid in the treatment of rickets disease. Musical entertainment was provided by the Blackfoot quartet. The meeting was presided over by Jack Barlett, temporary chairman, in the absence of Joe Wolfe, president.

BOY KNOCKED DOWN RUNNING INTO AUTO

William Rountree, 2, of 1023 Ogleshorpe avenue, narrowly escaped serious injury Tuesday night when knocked down and run over by a Buick sedan on the corner of Popple and Lawton streets, driven by J. A. Barnett, of 1586 South Gordon street, according to police reports.

Mr. Barnett stopped his car and took the Rountree boy to Grady hospital where his injuries were found to consist of severe bruises and lacerations. Barnett went to the police station and reported that the lad ran into the side of his car, making it impossible for the driver to avoid the accident. No case was made by the police.

MORTUARY

MRS. LULA THOMPSON. Mrs. Lula Thompson, 67, died Tuesday morning at the home, 236 Leater street, East Point. She left behind three brothers, J. M. R. M., and J. A. Preston and four sisters, Mrs. J. C. Hamby, Mrs. F. M. Brown, Mrs. J. H. Peck and Miss Heenie Parker. The body will be taken this morning to Jefferson, Ga. A. C. Hemperly in charge.

MRS. GEORGE B. DANIEL

Mrs. George B. Daniel, 65, died Tuesday afternoon at a private hospital. She was survived by her husband; four daughters, Mrs. H. H. Taylor, Mrs. Kansas City, Mrs. M. E. Moore, Mrs. J. A. Taylor, and Mrs. Fred Drake; and a son, Andrew Daniel, Harry R. Poole.

REVIEW BENEFIT PACKS AUDITORIUM

Metropolitan theater, had great trouble leaving the stage, so reluctant were his hearers to release him.

Charles Wynn, soloist, experienced the same difficulty.

Caliste Conant Hudson presented a pianologue and had as much trouble getting off as any of the rest.

Success was for the mail.

We don't know his name. He was on the program as the "dancing bell hop." He was a bell hop, a real, colored bell hop, the kind that brings you ice water. He was the "dancing" bell hop, and his audience did not fail in its reward.

Gorgeous Mannequins.

On few occasions has the feminine eye of Atlanta had an opportunity to feast itself upon such lavish creations. The gowns, pajamas, riding habits—everything—larger description, they were gorgeous, colorful, shimmering, dazzling, extravagant. It is impossible to single out any one particular gown on any one particular mannequin. All of them seemed beautiful and beyond being made any more so.

The pageant opened with the "Evolution of Fashion," beginning with Eve, in her first gown of skin when the cave man and his girl friend, the Grecian girl, the "1800" girl and the "Gibson girl."

Ensued a series of reviews, tactfully arranged in which the kind of young women for which this section of the country has become famous, paraded about the stage in creations which Paris says are correct, and which the eyes shout are gorgeous.

There seemed no end of beautiful girls and beautiful gowns.

Wedding Scene. To top it all came the wedding scene. Few brides have been so gloriously arrayed for the altar as was Miss Callie Orme. Her bridesmaids were Misses Helen Noble, Virginia Forrester, Katherine Murphy, Ida and Mary Sadler, and Miss Phillips Orme. The flower girls were Thelma Dunbar, Jacqueline Guilan, Virginia Kay and Dorothy Reus. Mrs. R. H. White was the matron of honor.

The bridal procession filed from the arena entrance to the raised platform leading onto the stage. People became afraid that it was going to be real, as the strains of the wedding march echoed against the walls of the municipal building, and the bride marched down, with all her equipment, looking just as if she meant it. The cast of the revue included: Misses Margaret Elder, Ethel Hunter, Callie Orme, Harriet Shelden, Corday Rice, Anne Stringfellow, Telside Pratt, Edna Belle Raine, Helena Calaway, Boyce Loker, Mary Rhorer, Elizabeth Phillips, Rachel Neely, Mary Middleton, Virginia Torrence, Anne and Elizabeth Spalding Mary and Ida Sadler, Betty Davidson, Jane Davidson, Jennie Robinson, Mrs. Russell Bellman, Katherine Murphy, Marian Wolff, Yolande Gwyn, Mary Harris, Idolene Lewman, Anne Kessling, Boosie Perkins, Allison Lonsdale, Mary Ballenger, Mary B. Bailey, Adrienne Grinnell, Cornelia, Ga.; Gertrude, Harvey, Constance and Francis Spalding, Suzette Heath, Ellen Newell.

Specialty Numbers.

Specialty numbers were presented by Lydia Ragsdale, Elizabeth Broughton, Louise Hudson, Louise Rowan, Hazel Bolsh, Amanda Nations, Carey Lovelace, and Frank Warnock.

Flowers used in the wedding scene were furnished by Ritchie's floral department and the jewelry by Maier and Berkle.

The gowns, of course, were furnished by Ritchie's.

Much credit is due Mr. Leide, for arrangement of the musical score. When some little something was wrong behind stage, as was the case once or twice, Mr. Leide was complete master of the situation, and aided and abetted by his corps of musicians, everything went off mighty pretty.

There are many others who deserve special mention and special credit. Mrs. Passie Fenton Otley, president of the trustees of the Tailor's Falls school, issued a statement in which she thanked the "loyal friends of who made merry in behalf of the girls and boys on the steep sides of Cherokee mountain."

"In behalf of the girls and boys of the school," said the statement "now and for all time to come, the trustees of the school thank most heartily all who have made this occasion possible. May we pay each one in full by giving you, for your very own, an abiding interest in this wonderful work of 'Salvaging Americans'."

EDUCATION BOARD DISMISSES CHARGES

and work that the Walker street school building has been established as the school administration building for the entire school system, wherein the heads of all departments are situated close together in such a way that official business of the school department is easily cared for, Mr. Sutton said.

"Mr. Ritchie has established a splendid mailing system and has now in hand a large number of new improvements for the system which will eventually affect many of Atlanta's other departments," the superintendent declared.

Worked Long Hours.

"Investigation has also brought to light the fact that with a large number of employees and with one department completely wiped out, Mr. Ritchie has worked on an average of from 16 to 18 hours every day, displaying marked ability and great energy in carrying forward while disturbed by the fact that his entire administration has been attacked. This quality alone of being able to produce such marvelous results in so short a time under such trying circumstances prove him to be a man who knows his business, who is willing to work and who is getting splendid results."

After the report was read and a vote taken on final settlement of the charges, W. C. State stated that he had "no ill feeling against either Mr. Ritchie or Mr. Sutton," but he saw no reason why the school system should not improve when so much money was at the disposal of officials in charge.

Sutton replied that no more money was available for improvements this year than in former years but that his satisfactory results as had ever been obtained had been secured during the past year under Ritchie.

Following the vote the board took up various other routine matters pertaining to the school system.

Meeting Tuesday.

The board voted to hold an adjourned meeting next Tuesday afternoon. At this session a resolution introduced by Mr. Maddox providing for the employment of an assistant to the business manager and a resolution of a similar nature presented by Mr. Miller will be considered.

A recommendation of Superintendent Sutton that 35 typewriters be purchased for use by girls at Girls' high school who have not obtained necessary units for graduation was adopted.

What Doctors Say.

Dr. G. Rogers reports Adierika is the best medicine he has used in 31 years. Dr. W. H. Bernhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adierika. Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor for 50 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adierika. Dr. L. Langlois prescribes Adierika regularly with good effect. Dr. J. E. Puckett writes: "After using Adierika I feel better than for 20 years. All my ailments were eliminated from my system."

Adierika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its RRA, and quick action. Jacobs Pharmacy and other leading druggists.—(adv.)

Charles Green, a railroad man, was troubled for years with gas fermentation of food and was dizzy and bloated. His heart beat so laboriously that his bed seemed to shake. Finally he tried the mixture of buckthorn bark, glysterine, etc. (known as Adierika) and this helped him.

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body starve full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleansing with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glysterine, etc. as sold under the name Adierika. This sets on BOTH upper and lower bowel, stimulates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which you never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc.

Whoever you eat too much heavy food, let Adierika REMOVE the undigested surplus and leave you feeling fine. ONE spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move only once a day, Adierika brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble. Don't waste time with pills or tablets but let Adierika give your stomach and bowels QUICK relief.

Adierika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its RRA, and quick action. Jacobs Pharmacy and other leading druggists.—(adv.)

QUALITY AT LOW COST

We Question Your Ability, Mr. Ragsdale

Mr. Ragsdale is trying to becloud the real issues in this campaign. Instead of attacking a fine, representative group of ladies from every ward in our city, who have formed a Women's Citizen Committee, and who are supporting Mr. Gordon, by stating that they are "paid workers"—

Why doesn't he tell the voters of Atlanta just how much paving was put down in front of property he now owns or did own on Arlington avenue during 1925, and who paid for it? Fulton county records show that 1,760 feet of paving was put down on Arlington avenue in 1925, and paid for by Fulton county money at a cost of $10,012.85. Mr. Ragsdale is a large property owner on Arlington avenue.

The hard-working man of Atlanta has to pay Baby Bonds to have the street paved in front of his property, but Mr. Ragsdale can have the street paved in front of his property, within the city limits of Atlanta, at no cost to himself.

What Will He Do If He Is Elected Mayor of Atlanta?

This is not "mud slinging;" these questions are not personal ones. We are simply telling the people of Atlanta what he did as Chairman of the Finance Committee of Fulton County Commissioners, a position he was elected to for a term of four years, and then resigned from after serving but one year and four months of his elected term.

Did He Get All He Wanted From Fulton County During This Short Term of Office?

How much longer are the taxpayers of Atlanta going to stand by and see their money, the taxes they pay into Fulton county, spent to enhance the value of property owned by a County Commissioner, when they, if they want street paving in front of their property, have to pay for it with BABY BONDS.

IS MR. RAGSDALE COMPETENT TO ADMINISTER THE FINANCES OF THE CITY OF ATLANTA?

Remember, Atlanta's income is practically thirteen million per year, and add to this the eight million bond money the next Mayor must oversee the expenditure of.

Crackers Lose First And "In Second Game In Double Bill Here

BY CLARENCE NIXON.

A long triple to the top of the center field fence by Haas, Cracker centerfielder, an infield hit and a chase between first and second base in which Brock was the main subject, enabled the Crackers to score one run in the sixth and last inning of the double-header and beat the Bears by one run, splitting the bill.

Haas came up in the sixth inning amidst much applause from the stands and cracked out a long hit which missed clearing the center field fence by about three feet. Brock then beat out an infield knock, and after a couple of strikes had been called on Durocher, Brock started to second and got in a chase. While the first and second basemen were running the little Cracker catcher back and forth, "Mule" Haas made a dash for the home plate and by inches he was safe, giving the Crackers their third run and beating the Mobile Bears, 3 to 2, in the second game. The Bears took the first game by a score of 10 to 1.

Five hits plus four Cracker errors and a couple of walks gave the Bears eight runs in the seventh inning and the Crackers were a beaten bunch of 11 tossers. After the Bears had scored a couple of their many runs the whole Cracker infield seemed to go up in smoke. First one and then another would mess up a play and a runner would cross the plate. Griffith, Suggs and McCrone were charged with errors during this spurt.

The Bears scored their other two runs in the fifth inning. Susko planted a single over second base, advanced on a sacrifice by Manning, and scored of the bill and only one error was marked up against them. "Veh" made that one when he fumbled a weak infield hit all around the second sack, letting Suggs get on first. The second game saw much better ball on both parts, including the hurling. Cavet and Greer did mound duty in the nightcap and did it in fine fashion. Only five hits were bagged by each team.

Both teams, especially the Crackers, looked like an altogether different team, that is in the eyes of the scorers, who suffered during the nine innings of the first spasm. A better brand of pitching was passed around to the players, and the fielding was above par, with the exception of the time when Gilbert messed up a slow infield knock by Rollins in the initial inning, allowing the Mobile third baseman get safe and later scoring.

Double Plays Good.

A couple of double plays, one in the first and the other in the second game was completed in fine fashion. The Bears prevented Gilbert from scoring by their double taking, when the ball was shot in from deep short and killed Mr. Gilbert at the plate and then relayed to first to get Roy Luebke just before he touched the bag.

The Crackers did not do any great work with their doubling, but managed to retire the side with it. Hood hit a hot one to Cavet who snatched it up and sent it to Durocher on second to get Schultz, and Durocher hurried it to McCrone in time to knock Hood off the first sack. It was nice work of both teams and sort of lived things up a bit.

Nothing exciting took place with the exception of "Mule" Haas' long three-base knock that would have gone for a home run had it not bounced "umb" back almost to second base just when Hood off the first sack. It was nice work of both teams and sort of lived things up a bit.

A few neat catches and pickups by Durocher and Gilbert were noticeable, but Mr. Gilbert had made so many bobbles that it did not go over so big. Haas also made a few nice runs ning snags of some long flies to the center garden. After the nightmare first game, Bert Niehoff, Cracker skipper, thought it high time to get on the field and get his team back together once more. He played his old place at second and gave Suggs a rest during the last half of the bill. Bert managed to bring his hired help back to their senses or whatever one might call it, and carry them through the last lap of the bill in pretty good shape. The Bears' first and only runs came in the opening frame of the second game when Rollins got safe on Gilbert's error, after Williams had popped to McCrone and scored on a long double to left field by Cueto. Schultz then slammed a two-base knock out to center and scored Cueto, but was thrown out at third trying to make a three-bagger out of his hit.

Two in Fourth.

The Crackers scored their two runs in the fourth frame. Griffith, walked and scored when Haas cracked his second double of the afternoon out on the right field bank. Niehaus was thrown out but Brock sent a sacrifice fly up on the bank where Haas' two-bagger landed and the "Mule" came galloping in home with the Crackers' second run. Durocher filled out to Hood to end the inning.

The third Cracker run came in the last inning. Coming up amidst a howl of applause from the stands, Griffith walked and scored when it came he cracked it on the nose and sent it almost over the high fence in center field for his third three-bagger of the day. Niehaus failed to bring him in but Brock managed to beat out a weak hit. Durocher was then at bat and after a couple of strikes had passed, Mr. Brock made a dash for second, and while the first and second basemen were chasing the Cracker backdrop, Haas pulled a Evario Nurni stunt and crossed the plate with the winning run and set the stands to rocking.

Without a doubt, Haas took the

FOXES TAKE THIRD GAME IN SOUTHEAST

Columbus, Ga., September 14.—(AP) The Columbus Foxes captured the third game of the championship series of the Southeastern league here this afternoon, trouncing the Montgomery Lions by the score of 6 to 3.

Paul Doss, ace of the Fox hurling corps, hurled for the victors, striking out an even dozen Lions. However, he was touched for ten hits but invincible pitching in the pinches cut off visiting scores.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Montgomery . . . 001 000 002—3 10 1 Columbus . . . 202 000 023—6 9 1 McMullan and Ransall; Schorling; Doss and Powell.

Cracker hitting honors for the day with his three profitable triples out of six trips to the plate. He also was the only Cracker to get more than one hit off Greer in the second game. Griffith and Francis came next to Haas with their stick work, getting a couple of safe blows each. Cueto, Rollins, Schultz, Welch and Susko took the laurels, if any, in the Bears' bat work. Cueto bagged four safeties in the first game and one in the second, while the others managed to get only two or three hits apiece.

To Cavet goes a lot of credit for the victory after the laurels are hung on Haas, for he turned in a well-pitched game for the second half of the bill.

The same teams will do battle today at the same place but at a different time. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Over two billion smoked a month! —and for just one reason

All headed one way, for natural tobacco taste

NO doubt about it. Over two billion Chesterfields are smoked every month, and even today, after four years of record-breaking gains, Chesterfield is still America's fastest-growing cigarette.

To men who know tobacco, that means just one thing. American smokers have found what they wanted—natural tobacco taste and character. They've found it in Chesterfields only—and the shift to Chesterfield is on!

Ceremonies at Candler Field Today To Feature Air Mail Inauguration

Ceremonies at Candler Field This Afternoon Officially Mark Launching of New Service.

Today is "air mail day" in Atlanta.

Atlanta and Candler field will be officially identified on the federal aviation map this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock as the United States air mail plane "Miss Atlanta" under the pilotage of L. S. Flo, with Postmaster M. E. Ross, of Jacksonville; Postmaster E. K. Large, of Atlanta, and V. E. Chenev, vice president of the Florida Airways corporation, as passengers, comes to a halt before thousands of Atlantans at the municipal airport amidst a blare of whistles and sirens welcoming the installation of the new method of transportation and communication.

The ultra-modern plane will appear in the sky over the business district at 3:45 o'clock, the municipal aviation committee having arranged for its entrance to the city to be marked with the sounding of all factory and engine whistles and sirens. Mayor Pro Tem Claude E. Buchanan, in an official proclamation, requested that all whistles blow for at least one minute at 3:45 o'clock.

Earlier in the day, through the courtesy of Colonel Charles Danforth, commander of the fourth corps area, United States army, and R. E. L.

Air Mail Program

3:00 P. M.—Aerial exhibition of visiting planes and police band concert.

3:15 P. M.—Clearing of the skies by visiting planes and ground formation in honor of the United States mail plane.

3:30 P. M.—Police band concert.

3:45 P. M.—Welcome of whistles and sirens of Atlanta's factories as United States mail plane appears over city.

3:50 P. M.—Arrival of United States mail plane and official welcome by Governor Clifford Walker, Mayor Sims and Captain George M. Hope.

4:00 P. M.—Christening of "Miss Atlanta," Georgia's first United States mail plane, by Miss Elizabeth Buchanan, daughter of the mayor pro tem, Claude E. Buchanan.

Cong. governor of the National Aeronautical Association for Georgia, a squadron of 12 reserve officers' planes from Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., will enter the city to be on hand for the afternoon celebration, and the national guard air squadron of Alabama from Birmingham will follow immediately, offering Atlantans an opportunity of viewing the largest demonstration of federal planes ever assembled at Candler field. Aerial exhibitions will be given until 3:15 o'clock when all escort planes will clear the sky in homage to the United States plane, due a half-hour later.

Reception Committee.
"Miss Atlanta," decked in red, white and blue of the United States mail service, will be given the honor location directly in front of the speakers' stand and reception committee. In addition to thousands of Atlantans to greet the "Miss Atlanta" and the first air-mail cargo from Florida will be the reception committee composed of: Governor Clifford Walker, Mayor Walter Sims, Mayor Pro Tem Claude E. Buchanan, Asa G. Candler, Jr.,

through whose kind offer the aviation field was gained and which is named in his honor, Colonel Charles Danforth, W. D. Hoffman and B. S. Barker of the chamber of commerce, county commissioners in charge of Captain G. M. Hope, council aviation committee, under the supervision of Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, mayor's advisory committee composed of Mrs. Mrs. Norman Sharp, Carl Hutcheson and Victor Krieglshaber; Mrs. R. K. Rambo, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, state president Georgia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. J. J. Harris, of Sandersville, prominent member of Woman's clubs; Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, president of Atlanta's Woman's clubs; Mrs. J. B. Hornady, vice president of Woman's clubs, and Mrs. Susie Wailes, president of the woman's division of the chamber of commerce.

Members of the Atlanta and Hapeville councils, mayors of the two cities, Fulton county commissioners, chamber of commerce representatives, and representatives of Atlanta's Woman's clubs have been requested by the inauguration committee to occupy the speakers' stand. Members of the Candler family, donors of the field in company with Governor Walker, postmasters of Atlanta and Jacksonville and Florida Airways officials will also occupy the reception committee platform.

Directions For Spectators.
All persons attending the celebration have been requested to remain outside the wire marking the plane runways, it being explained by Mr. Cone, in charge of field activities, that due to the large number of planes on the field all the available space would be needed.

Mr. Cone also requested that all Atlanta aviators, reserve officers, national guard officers and members of Atlanta chapter of the National Aeronautical association attend the inauguration tomorrow and welcome the mail plane and federal aviation units. This group will be in charge of Mrs. Norman Sharp, Colonel E. D. A. Pearce, Frank B. Saunders, John D. Hickey, Frank Crowder, Robert LeVick and R. B. Davidson.

Persons visiting the field in automobiles are requested to route over Stewart avenue to Hapeville where local signs will guide drivers to parking space below the field embankment and return via East Point and Stewart avenue. Persons using street cars may take the Hapeville car to Virginia avenue, the field being located only a short distance from this point.

Postmaster Large reported late last night that approximately 8,000 to 10,000 pieces of air mail would be sent to the south, it being assured that more than 30,000 pieces of mail would pass over the entire federal route during the day.

maining precincts in the city indicate that Hill is increasing his lead. Governor Ritchie, democratic candidate for a third term as governor, rolled 9,722 votes against W. M. May's total of 1,136, in returns of 177 precincts here. Representative Tydings, democratic candidate for the senate has no opponent.

COLONEL GREEN'S LEAD IS NEARING 100,000.
Detroit, September 15.—(AP)—Colonel Fred W. Green's lead over Governor Alex. J. Groves for the republican gubernatorial nomination was approaching the 100,000 mark as returns for nearly half the state were tallied shortly after midnight. The figures, from 1,300 out of 2,955 precincts in the state were: Green 493,293; Groves 94,774.

In the four-corner contest for the republican gubernatorial nomination, L. A. Dickinson was leading Lieutenant Governor George Welsh. Returns from 111 precincts gave: Dick, 6,238; Welsh, 2,433; Oscar Rippelle, 1,036.

There were no contests among the democrats on the state ticket.

In the only contest for a congressional seat where a national issue was presented, the sixth district, Grant M. Hudson, republican incumbent and avowed dry, had a slight margin over J. Bradford Pengelly, wet candidate.

REPUBLICAN WINNERS IN RE-ELECTION FIGHTS.
Albany, N. Y., September 14.—(AP)—Early returns from today's primary election in New York state indicated that at least three republican members of congress won re-nomination in the face of contest. The victors were: Nathan D. Perlman, 14th district, (Manhattan) Frank Crowder, 30th district, Gale H. Stalker, 37th district.

Representative Pearlman defeated Bertram Howell, Frank Crowder defeated E. Watson Gardner, wet, who sought nomination in both the republican and democratic primaries. Representative Stalker, dry, defeated Edwin L. Evans, wet.

There was a republican overturn in the 34th district, where John D. Clarke, defeated Harold S. Tolley. Two years ago Tolley defeated Clarke for re-nomination.

Representative John F. Quayle, seventh district (Brooklyn) was re-nominated, defeating Francis J. Kelly.

SENATOR BROUSSARD LEADS IN LOUISIANA.
New Orleans, September 14.—(AP)—One of the closest races for the democratic nomination for United States senator in the southern states developed here today between United States Senator Edwin S. Broussard, seeking re-nomination, and Jared Y. Sanders, former governor, in the Louisiana state primary.

With approximately two-thirds of the vote of the state reported, Senator Broussard was leading by 2,480 votes. The vote was: Broussard, 68,430; Sanders 66,956 with 911 of the 1,313 precincts in the state reported.

Representative Zach Spearling won an easy victory over three opponents in the second congressional district, pulling as many votes as his three opponents put together on the face of returns from 121 out of the 155 precincts in the district. His vote was 15,149 as compared with 7,250 for Van Buren Harris; 2,395 for R. S. Stearns and 675 for Mrs. F. I. Williams. All other demonstrated incumbents were re-nominated without opposition.

FORMER JUDGE WEEKS LEADING IN VERMONT.
Montpelier, Vt., September 14.—(AP)—Former Judge John E. Weeks, of Middlebury, tonight led his opponent for the republican nomination for governor in returns from 84 of the state's 248 towns and cities. Mr. Weeks rolled 6,122 votes against 2,908 for former State Senator Max W. Powell, of Burlington, and 2,107 for Lieutenant Governor Walter K. Farrington, of Burlington.

Congressman Elbert S. Brigham, republican, first district, led State Senator Martin S. Vilas, of Burlington, 11,104 to 5,822, with returns completed for 104 towns and cities out of 115 in the district.

JOHN F. MILLER AHEAD OF WET OPPONENT.
Seattle, September 14.—(AP)—John F. Miller, incumbent, led his wet opponent, James McCabe, 1,119 to 447, when 26 precincts complete out of 364 had made returns in the race for the republican nomination for representative in the first district of Washington tonight.

Returns from 25 complete precincts for congressman third district gave:

Johnson, incumbent, 1,143; Jones, 1,005; Nelson, 181.

ATTORNEY GENERAL CONTEST IS CLOSE.

Boston, September 14.—(AP)—A close race for the republican nomination for attorney general marked the primaries today. The vote of 618 precincts out of 1,676 in the state gave: Elijah Adlow 23,585; Alexander Lincoln 16,601; Arthur K. Reading 25,204.

United States Senator William Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, and Governor Alvin T. Fuller, republican were renominated without opposition. Former Senator David I. Walsh was unsupported for the democratic nomination for senator, and William A. Gaston for the democratic nomination for governor.

ANTI-KLAN CANDIDATE LEADING IN COLORADO.
Denver, Colo., September 14.—(AP)—Charles W. Waterman, anti-klan candidate and counsel for the president's oil board, led United States Senator Rice W. Means for the republican senatorial nomination in first returns from today's primary.

Paul Prosser, Denver attorney, led former Governor W. E. Sweet for the democratic senatorial nomination in 12 precincts.

Seven precincts for the republican gubernatorial nomination gave: O. H. Shoup, 460; John F. Vivian, 460; gubernatorial, 212; Carl S. Milliken, secretary of state, 133.

In the democratic gubernatorial race nine precincts gave William H. Adams, 235; Judge Samuel W. Johnson, 74.

FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE GIVEN TO AUTO THIEF
Pensacola, Fla., September 14.—(AP)—James Lassiter was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary here today upon his conviction of the theft of an automobile from Lieutenant J. R. Richards, of North Naval Air station. The sentence set a precedent for such an offense in Florida jurisprudence.

sive cultivation—the getting of more from an acre. The lesson of business in farming has been learned, and that means that we are now beginning to have a balanced program and that money crops are being harvested and marketed as a net surplus.

Interview in New York.
Recently in a lengthy interview in New York and one which was widely commented upon, Mr. Lane referred to conditions in Georgia and throughout the southeast as "more promising than in several decades, and of a sound and healthy kind."

He said that from "discovery of Florida by Plant and Flagler, Georgia and other southeastern states have been rediscovered, and that the entire section is like a new country."

In discussing conditions, Mr. Lane said: "I only repeat what I said to a New York World reporter. We are in excellent shape in the south and Georgia is in the saddle. The state has had a remarkably good crop year and in the southern sections where tobacco is grown extensively, farmers, have the jump on those in other sections because they started getting fall money early. But in most sections of the state there were money crops, tomatoes, peppers, melons, peaches and other products for which ready money could be obtained."

Continuing, Mr. Lane said: "Just now our big crops must be moved and it takes money to move them. There is available and easily obtainable all the money required. As a matter of fact, money is fashionable right now. I mean by that everyone has money, and I see no reason why this state of affairs will not continue."

lots and tally sheets were in one place and some across town in one lot and many of the original ball lots could not be located at all. And the clerk stated that the only sheet they had showing the county totals was in the possession of Tom Candler.

"When these friends came back through Cleveland Monday night they found Tom Candler and the chairman of the Union county democratic committee there at Cleveland in an adjoining county to Union with the official tally sheet from Union county in their possession, and in conference with Robert McMillan and his law partner from Clarksville and Dr. C. J. Wellborn and Sheriff B. A. Rogers, from Gainesville, and some others.

"Of course, I do not know what this night conference was all about, but I learned later that they called the secretary of the state committee and asked that they be allowed to file another Union county report instead of the official report filed by the county committee. And I know nothing further about the matter."

Social Gaieties Honoring Brides-Elect Are of Interest

Social gaieties honoring lovely brides-elect are a source of never failing interest to society and the affairs of today offer more than the usual share for these popular honor guests. The midweek dinner dances at the Hotel Biltmore and Atlanta Athletic club continue to attract members of the social contingent and the number of reservations made for these two delightful events this evening gives promise of large assemblages at both places.

Miss Lula Lewis, charming bride-elect of early October, will be complimented with a series of pre-nuptial parties, the first of these happy affairs to begin today with the luncheon at which Miss Isabelle Breitenbacher will entertain at her home on Fifteenth street. Miss Nell Lawner, also a popular fall bride-elect, will be the recipient of a beautiful party today given by the members of her bridge club at the home of Mrs. Harry G. Poole. Miss Ruby White, who is one of the most feted of the fall brides-elect, will be tendered a bridge-luncheon today at the Biltmore hotel, Mrs. W. J. Wolff to be the hostess.

Pure Food Show At College Park.

Community interest for the week is being centered on the pure food show and cooking school being held at the College Park city hall under the auspices of the College Park Woman's club.

The cooking school is under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Stanfield, who is an expert in her line.

The entries in the pure food show are representatives of some of the largest business establishments of the south. The exhibits are well staged and are attracting much interest because of the attractive and practical demonstrations each day.

Miss Forest Weds F. Paul Gordon.

Mrs. and Mr. Alvin Downs announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Lela Forest, formerly of Mobile, Ala., to Forrest Paul Gordon on September 10, Dr. Charles W. Daniel performing the ceremony in the presence of a few close friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon left immediately for a short wedding trip and will be at home to their friends at 145 North Whitford avenue, after September 20.

Fidelis Class Plans Carnival.

The Fidelis class of Inman Park Baptist church invites the public to an old-time carnival Thursday afternoon and evening at the corner of Hurt street and Poplar circle, on a large vacant lot. There will be amusements for the grown folks and children. Admission is only 10 cents. The proceeds go to the building fund.

Miss Crane Is Given Shower.

An event of social interest was the surprise miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. W. L. McConnell at her home on West End Thursday evening in honor of Miss Mary Crane, who will leave for Waycross, Ga., September 18, as a member of the faculty of the high school there.

Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Williams, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Clements, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crane, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey O'Quinn, Mrs. Virginia Crane, Jack Bennett, Nelson Burton, Misses Mary Reeves, Lois Martin, of College Park, and Lois Martin, of Opelika, Ala., Lois Newborn, Olive Williams, Marie Taylor, Kathryn McConnell, Robert McCoy, Francis Crane, Agnes Hagdale, Louise Shivers, Mary Lambert and Marjorie Andrews.

Called Meeting Of College Park Club.

There will be a called meeting of the College Park Woman's club Thursday, September 16, at 12 o'clock, at the city hall immediately after the cooking school session of that day. All members are urged to be present.

Lowry Club Honors Eugene Gunby.

The Little Lowry club recently gave a delightful birthday party in honor of Eugene Gunby at the country home of Thomas K. Glenn.

Following the supper, dancing and bridge were enjoyed. Miss Mary Lee Smith and Miss Ruby Smith, of Emory University, gave several selections on the ukulele and Hawaiian guitar.

Those present were Miss Louise Gunby, Miss Clarice Wiggs, Miss Retha Cary, Miss Anne Knight, Miss Alice Malone, Miss Mildred LaHatte, Miss Mary Wren, Miss Wilhelmina Mills, Miss Mae Denbury and Miss Margaret Andoe, Charles Rose, Wadley Glenn, Eugene Gunby, Wm. S. Neal, J. W. Means, Roger Haygood, Tom Bravewell, Dan Mills, Eugene Adams and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rockmore.

LaGrange College To Open Today.

The fall term of LaGrange college will begin with the registration of students on Wednesday morning, September 15.

Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory university, will deliver an address to the faculty and student body in the college auditorium at 10:30 o'clock on Friday morning, at which time the first formal chapel exercises will be held. Mrs. R. J. Atkinson, of Greenville, Ga., will welcome the new students in behalf of the alumnae.

Mrs. Seidell Honors Prominent Guests At U.D.C. Luncheon

Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, state president of U. D. C.; Mrs. J. J. Harris, state U. D. C. editor, and members of the Peachtree Creek Battle park commission, including Henderson Hallman, former Senator and Mrs. Hoke Smith, George Hope, Eugene Haynes and Mrs. Jane Courtney, were honor guests at the seated luncheon given by Mrs. Stafford Seidell, president of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., Tuesday. The beautiful affair which marked the formal opening of the Atlanta chapter's fall term was held at the chapter house on Juniper street, following a meeting of the executive board, the other guests being the officers and members of the board of the Atlanta chapter.

The occasion marked the first meeting over which Mrs. Seidell has presided as president. The election having taken place in May just before the chapter suspended work for the summer. Her selection for the office is heralded by the chapter members with pleasurable anticipation in view of her superior ability and prowess as a leader.

The officers of the chapter who were present include Mrs. Frank Mason, Mrs. J. M. High, Mrs. Cleve Webb, Mrs. T. F. Hemminger, Mrs. Chaney Smith, Mrs. L. A. Clement, Mrs. Moreland Speer, Mrs. Forrest Kibler, Mrs. J. N. Bateman and Mrs. B. K. Boyd.

Mrs. Warren D. White, past president of the Atlanta chapter, extended the address of welcome. Mrs. Seidell introduced the speakers in a gracious manner.

The decorations throughout the house were quantities of fall flowers. In the dining room the colors were yellow and lavender and placed on the long banquet table were silver baskets holding golden marigold and lavender asters. Yellow and lavender candles were used in silver candelabra and the place cards were gold monogrammed cards of the hostess.

St. Luke's Church School Will Meet Wednesday.

The teachers and officers of St. Luke's Episcopal church school will hold the first fall meeting Wednesday evening, September 15, at 6 o'clock. Supper will be served before the meeting and three or more parents from each department will serve supper, coming in personal contact through this means with teachers and officers of the church school. These suppers are served three or four times a year. George B. Hinman is superintendent of the church school.

Bride-Elect Honored At Matinee Party.

A lovely matinee box party at the Forsyth theater Tuesday afternoon, was given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Gailey, of Conyers, Ga., in honor of their niece, Miss Elizabeth Summers, a bride-elect of September.

Invited guests for "The Best People" matinee were: Mrs. Gordon Perry, Thomson, Ga.; Miss Sarah Flake, Decatur; Miss Alpha Seamon Langford, Atlanta; Mrs. Jeff McCard, Atlanta; Mrs. Charles K. Gailey, Conyers; Mrs. Allen D. Summers, Conyers; Miss Sarah Will Cowan, Conyers; Mr. A. D. Summers, Jr., Miami, Fla.; Gailey Summers, Atlanta; Miss Elizabeth Summers Conyers; Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Gailey, Conyers.

Mrs. Jack Thieson Honors Her Sisters.

Miss Frances Traylor, a September bride-elect, whose marriage to Oter McClellan, of New York, will be a brilliant social event, Mrs. Allen Putnam, of New York, and Miss Thomas Dunham, of Miami, Fla., were honor guests at the tea at which their sister, Mrs. Jack Thieson, was hostess Tuesday afternoon, at her home on Inman circle, in Ansley park.

Mrs. Thieson was assisted by her mother, Mrs. George M. Traylor, and her guests included a small group of friends of the honor guests.

Mrs. Cromer Given Informal Party.

Among the affairs being given in honor of Mrs. Ford Cromer, of Birmingham, the guest of Mrs. F. A. Wilson-Lawrence, at her home on Peachtree street, was the mah jong party at which Mrs. Irving Gresham entertained on Tuesday. On Wednesday Mrs. Cromer gave a party to a few friends at the Piedmont Driving club for this popular visitor.

Miss Bausell Honors Miss Maxine Adams.

Miss Mildred Bausell was hostess on Tuesday afternoon at a bridge party at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in honor of Miss Maxine Adams, popular bride-elect of September 23.

Miss Bausell was assisted in entertaining her guests by her mother, Mrs. E. E. Bausell.

The first prize was a French novelty, the consolation a box of bath salts, the booty being a deck of cards. Miss Adams was presented a beautiful piece of handmade lingerie.

The invited guests included Miss Inez Williamson, Miss Maxine Phillips, Miss Robert Harbour, Miss Gladys McClellan, Miss Mary Buchanan, Miss Esther Garrett, Miss Evelyn Carmichael, Miss Sarah Bingham, Miss Ida Thomas, Miss Virginia Ashe, Miss Maude Bryant, Miss Margaret Hunt, Miss Helen Wike, Miss Elise Wilson, Mrs. C. W. Sullivan, Mrs. Jeff McCard, Mrs. A. J. Poole, Jr., Mrs. A. P. Curry, Mrs. McFadden and Mrs. Oliver.

Miss Overton Weds Irving W. Sargent.

A marriage of cordial interest throughout several states was that of Miss Margaret Overton, of Salisbury, N. C., and Irving Winter Sargent, formerly of Atlanta, which took place September 6 in Salisbury.

The bride's daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Overton, of Salisbury. She received her education at N. C. C. W. in Greensboro, finishing at Queen's college. The groom is the older son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Sargent, of Atlanta. He graduated from the Boys' High school and then attended the Georgia School of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Sargent will make their home in Hendersonville, N. C., where the groom holds a responsible position with the First Bank and Trust company of that city.

Mrs. Louise Lyerly To Speak Tonight.

Mrs. Louise Lyerly, president of the Atlanta Theosophical society, will give her first lesson in the course Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in room 201, 325 Peachtree street. The public is cordially invited and no admission or collection will be asked those attending.

Some of the points which Mrs. Lyerly will bring out in her lecture include that the subject of theosophy is really a new inspiration and a new strength to Christianity. There is nothing in the principles of theosophy that is in opposition to Christianity.

HOW MANY WOMEN GET UP SINGING

Two Women Find Health Essential to Happiness

MRS. BELLE THOMPSON
ROUTE 2, ROSSVILLE, GEORGIA

Springtime streamed in through the open windows. The green fields of Georgia were basking in the sunshine. Somewhere a bird was trilling. It was a day to be happy.

But the pale woman at the table sighed and pushed away her plate. Nothing tasted right. She couldn't eat much. She couldn't sleep well, either. She was so weak, it was hard to do her work. When the baby cried, she wanted to cry, too.

She had not been well for four years. Her husband watched her with a man's helpless expression. But his mother knew a remedy.

"My mother-in-law," says Mrs. Belle Thompson, Route 2, Rossville, Ga., "told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

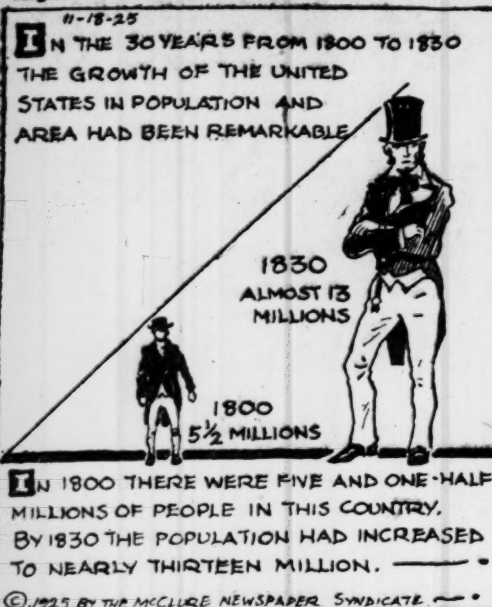

Another Happy Woman

Decatur, Illinois—"I took your medicine for weakness. I would sometimes have to hold myself up with my hands. I was this way for five years, off and on. I read in the newspapers where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped a lot of women, and I thought I would take it. I am now getting better so fast that every month I can feel a difference. My work now is cooking. If you like, you may use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to help you boost your medicine."—MRS. IRENE REED, 635 Greenwood Ave., Decatur, Ill.

This dependable medicine has been in use for over fifty years.

Board To Give Stag At Druid Hills Club

Barbecue Tonight

A very delightful informal affair of this afternoon will be the stag barbecue, at which the officers and board of directors of the Druid Hills Golf club will be hosts in honor of the members of the club, at 6:30 o'clock. The junior members are also invited. The officers of the club include

Lowry Arnold, president; Lord Park vice president, and Dr. J. E. Paulin secretary. The board of directors is composed of the officers, and Alfred Nevell, Henry Davis, Walter C. Gouge, Sam T. Maddox, Charles J. Golditch, Cary Baker, R. B. Trowman, W. F. Spalding, L. L. Shiver and James S. Floyd.

Other Affairs.

Among other affairs to be given at the Druid Hills Golf club this week will be the buffet supper at which W. A. Fuller will be host of Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, and the stag dinner at which the members of the Alpha Kappa fraternity of Georgia Tech will be hosts on Saturday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, in honor of their pledges.

THOUGHT LAST MOMENT HAD COME

But Kellogg's ALL-BRAN conquered constipation, the cause of her trouble

Now she's healthier and happier than ever!

"I awoke with a most disagreeable sensation around my heart and, together with fear, thought my last moment had come. After that I began to be troubled greatly with indigestion. This I treated diligently with supposed cures, but never found anything that completely relieved me except ALL-BRAN."

EDITH M. MASON. (Address on request.)

Constipation is the hideous bane of health. It fastens its ravaging hold on young and old. Sallow complexion, pimples, headaches—are all symptoms! Cleanse your system of its poisons for good.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation permanently if eaten regularly. It is 100 per cent bran. That's why doctors recommend it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. A ready-to-serve cereal, delicious with milk or fruit. Used cooking too. Served everywhere. Sold by all grocers on a money-back guarantee.

Collier-Daniel Wedding Is Beautiful Church Event

One of the most beautiful of the late summer weddings was that of Miss Eunice Bothwell Collier and Charles Bryan Daniel, which was solemnized on Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at All Saints' Episcopal church, Rev. W. W. Memminger performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

Proceeding the ceremony a lovely program of nuptial music was rendered by William Arnold, organist of All Saints' church.

The church presented a scene of beauty with its lovely decorations of ferns, palms, and foliage plants. Beautiful white tapers and flowers were artistically arranged among the greenery, giving a very lovely effect.

On each side of the altar were three large cathedral candelabra holding tall white burning tapers. Slender palms and tall floor baskets of white roses and lilies were placed in artistic arrangement and further enhanced the exquisite beauty of the scene.

Wedding Party.

The ushers entered first. They were John Pritchett, John Knox, Wellborn Coby and D. O. Martin, Jr.

Next came the two bridesmaids, Miss Alice Hughes, of Henderson, N. C., and Miss Freda Smith. Their gowns were of beige chiffon, made with full circular skirts, and basque waists. A cape effect of the same material hung from the shoulders to the waist line. Their hats were of brown velvet and they carried bouquets of pink roses and blue delphiniums.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Nancy Collier, entered next and was a lovely picture in her dress of beige chiffon with hat to match. She carried a charming old-fashioned bouquet and

Writers' Club To Hold Initial Fall Meeting

Members of the Atlanta Writers' club and their guests will assemble at the Atlanta Woman's club Thursday evening for the initial meeting of the season. An interesting program, including music, readings, the introduction of new members and their guests, has been arranged.

A number of interesting affairs are being planned for the 1926-27 season of the Writers' club, and it is hoped that residents of Atlanta who have guests that are writers will get in touch with some one of the officers listed below, or with some member of the club, in order that the visiting writers may be invited to attend the meetings of the club.

The officers of the Atlanta Writers' club are: Dr. W. F. Melton, president; Joseph B. Hooper, first vice president; Mrs. Ben H. No More Freckles!

Now science has discovered a harmless new way to banish—almost overnight—freckles and tan! Since this Amazing New Discovery there is no excuse for unsightly freckles on face, arms or shoulders, or dusky tan. Even black heads, pimples, sallowness, roughness and muddiness vanish as if by magic. Your skin takes on that enchanting beauty that every one admires.

Just before bedtime smooth some of this cool, fragrant cream on your skin. The very next morning notice how freckles and tan have already started to give way. Ask your dealer for a jar of Golden Peacock Bleach Cream (Concealer). Use it daily. If not delighted with the transformation, your money will be refunded. At all good drug and department stores.

Get a jar of Golden Peacock Bleach Cream—now—today. Use it only five nights. Then it will not only banish freckles and tan, but it will also whiten and beautify your skin. At all good drug and department stores. Ask for Golden Peacock Bleach Cream. It is the only one that will not only banish freckles and tan, but it will also whiten and beautify your skin. Tea-Dance Honors Prominent Guests At Fort McPherson

Colonel and Mrs. W. H. Patterson, Captain and Mrs. J. C. Woodland, Captain and Mrs. C. C. Johnston and Mrs. J. B. Hockman, whose departure for Fort McPherson, where they have been stationed, takes place during the following week and will be a source of keen regret, were honor guests at the informal tea-dance given in the Officers' club at the post, Tuesday afternoon, from 4:30 to 6 o'clock. The hosts of this auspicious occasion were the officers of the 22d Infantry and their wives.

The club was elaborately decorated in fall flowers, placed in baskets and vases on the mantles and consoles. A program of inspiring music was played for dancing. Punch was served from an artistically decorated bowl decorated in fruits of the season, and embedded in a base of richly colored fall flowers.

Prominent members of military society were invited for this important social event.

Colonel Patterson will leave the garrison to join the organized reserve corps at Indianapolis, Ind.; Captain Woodward leaves for Ft. McPherson, located in Denver, Col.; Captain Johnston's assignment for duty will be at Fort Bliss, Ark., while Captain Hockman reports for duty at Walter Reed hospital, in Washington, D. C., to be transferred to the Philippine Islands in March. This group of officers, together with their wives, are among the most popular residents of Fort McPherson and since their residence in Atlanta have figured prominently in the various social entertainments of army and civilian life.

American Home Department Meet.

A large number of Atlanta Woman's club members and special guests are expecting to attend the first monthly meeting of the new club department of the American home at the clubhouse this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Plans for the year will be announced by Mrs. Newton C. Wing, chairman, and the divisional chairmen, Mrs. R. A. Reed, chairman of the division of home economics teaching which includes the Smith Hughes vocational classes, which originated in the home economics department of the club seven years ago, will tell of the new classes just starting. Mrs. Ira Farmer, chairman for the state and also for the club department of the division of home demonstration work, will report on the work for the past summer, as well as outline plans for the coming year, and Miss Clara Lee Cone, chairman of the division of home making, will explain the different subdivisions of our new work. Other new officers and chairmen to be introduced are Mrs. Murray Howard, secretary; Mrs. Arthur Hazard, treasurer; Mrs. Fort Land, hospitalier; chairman; Mrs. John A. Perdue, automobile chairman; Mrs. P. C. Fabel, telephone, and Mrs. Charles C. Harding, in charge of the cook book.

Special guests will be the chairman of the American home departments of other Atlanta clubs, including those of the College Park Woman's club, Hapeville; West End Civic club, Kirkwood, and West End clubs. If other clubs than these have already appointed chairmen, Mrs. Wing requests that she be notified and that these chairmen will be most welcome Wednesday. Of interest to all will be a talk by Miss Espie Campbell, state director of Smith Hughes classes.

Following the meeting, a reception will be held in honor of the new members of the department, including especially those who have joined the club this summer, and those club members who are joining the Smith Hughes classes at this time. Presiding at the punch bowl will be Mrs. Fort Land, hospitality chairman; Mrs. John A. Perdue and Mrs. T. G. Delph.

Deja $39.50

In Deja Dresses you have the judgment of Paris. Six great Parisian dress-makers in conference create and sketch them out.

Lanvin, Martial et Armand, Patou, Lelong and Molyneux.

They are models of the Boulevards, done with French finesse—the Gallic elan and spirit.

Models so created by these masters and rushed to New York and the manufacturing begins—on a scale—making possible the very moderate price—$39.50.

Deja dresses are done in superior, beautiful and serviceable materials; they are finished with nicety and precision. They allow the woman of cultivated taste but limited income to dress in the very zenith of the mode on a small expenditure.

Two new Dejas are sketched and described. Ready today—shown for the first time.

Sketched Below
Martial et Armand have designed a charming canton crepe dress with a new tucked vest of Elizabeth crepe. Shown in several colors. Spruce green with callot, chanel red with shrimp, navy with cocoa, black and shrimp.

Sketched Above
The simplicity of youth is interpreted by Martial et Armand in this dinner dress of georgette and lace. It has been designed with a graceful circular lace yoke, together with lace panels under the arms. It comes in black, water green, sleeping beauty and geraldine red.

Distinctive Furniture at Lower Prices Characterize Stephen Philibosian Display

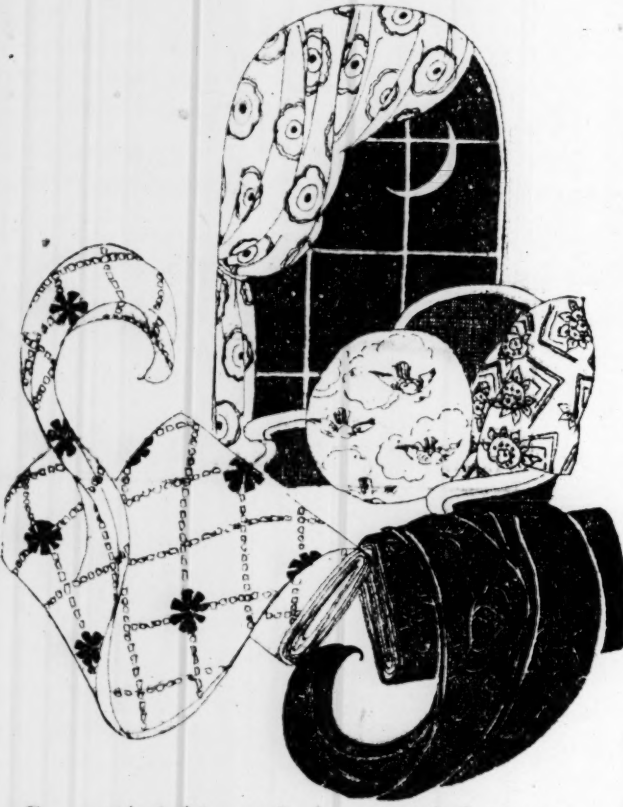

The photograph above was taken at the store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., and shows one of the many distinctive furniture designs on display there.

This Empire Sofa is an exact reproduction of an old solid mahogany piece found in an old colonial home in Virginia, where it was known as a Love Seat.

The clear outlines and hand carving make it harmonize beautifully with the more lavish pieces of modern furniture.

Distinctive furniture at popular prices is making the store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., one of the most popular in the entire south. The policy of the firm to sell only for cash enables them to offer the more exclusive designs at prices well within reach of the general public.

Miss Stephens HonorsMiss Emmie Montgomery.

Miss Elizabeth Stephens was hostess at her home in Marietta Tuesday at a bridge-luncheon in honor of Miss Emmie Montgomery, whose marriage to Mark Mayes will take place in October.

A group of close friends were invited.

Miss Nell Brauner Is Honor Guest.

Miss Nell Brauner, a September bride-elect, was honor guest at the luncheon given Tuesday by Miss Harriett Oliver, at the Atlanta Athletic club.

Covers were placed for Miss Brauner, Misses Catherine Greger, of Brownsville, Tex.; Mildred Armstrong, of Gastonia, N. C.; Elizabeth Starke, Ruth McMillan, Elsie Prater, Margaret Brauner, Mrs. Milton Jones and Mrs. J. E. Watterson.

Miss Roberts HonorsMiss Alice Trabue.

Miss Alma Pope Roberts was hostess at luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic club Tuesday in compliment to Miss Alice Trabue, of Nashville, Tenn., the guest of her aunt, Mrs. E. D. Kennedy, at her home on Peachtree street.

The table laid as its central decoration a silver basket holding fall flowers, and hand-painted place cards marked the places for the guests.

Mrs. Kaiser To Sponsor Tea at Woman's Club.

The teas sponsored by the Atlanta Woman's club have steadily increased in popularity, as the president, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith is giving especial emphasis to culture, music and education, and has secured speakers of distinction and prominence for these occasions. Mrs. Smith has planned for the fall regime, a new feature in which a chairman of each division will have charge of a tea; thereby being given an opportunity to present the work and the members of the committee to the club.

Friday afternoon, September 17, Mrs. Nat Kaiser, chairman of the division of music, will have charge. Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, music chairman, will have charge of the music.

The honor guests will be Dr. and Mrs. George Johnson, and members of the staff of hospital No. 48; Mr. Steve Johnson and Miss Feebeck, of Grady hospital, and Mrs. Robert Gregg and Mrs. C. F. Wolfe, of the Scottish Rite hospital for crippled children.

Reservations can be made by calling Hemlock 225, 3202 or 5803.

Daniel O'Keefe Junior High P-T. A. To Meet.

The Daniel C. O'Keefe, Jr., High P-T. A. will hold its first meeting Thursday, September 16, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. Miss Jessie Muse, principal of Girls' High school, will be the speaker of the evening. All parents are urged to attend.

Schools and Colleges To Benefit by Student Rate.

Mrs. Wilmer Moore, chairman of the schools cooperation committee of the membership committee, announced that Atlanta's prep schools and colleges, which will enjoy the benefits of the new low rate given students by the Atlanta Music club, will also help materially to support the club by becoming subscribing members.

Washington seminary, North Avenue Presbyterian school, Woodberry hall, the De la Puente school of piano and the Morgan-Stephens school of violin all enlisted in the ranks of the club as the first groups of subscribing members to be enrolled following the opening of the club's membership campaign Tuesday morning.

Several of the schools will take boxes for the season at the five civic concerts, a different group of teachers or students occupying the box at each concert while other students, who will take advantage of the new low student rate, listen to the concerts from the student section of the auditorium.

The concert course this year will open with Rosa Ponselle, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, at the city auditorium, October 14. Albert Spalding will be the second artist on the series of five concerts, playing October 28.

The membership campaign, under leadership of Mrs. Cliff C. Hatcher, president, and Mrs. E. K. Davis, vice president and membership chairman, is intended to build up the subscribing membership of the club to 1,000, a sufficient number to support the concert course and at the same time enable the new low prices to be granted to public school and college students.

Members may join simply by mailing their checks for $15, the annual dues, to the Music Club office at 84 North Broad street. Membership

Pimples gone!
~ a clean shave ~
ready to meet the world

THEY'RE GONE! Those unsightly, annoying pimples that were such an embarrassment to you. Absolutely disappeared! S. S. S., the powerful blood cleanser and red, blood builder, did it!

Now you know what to do about such skin eruptions. Now you know how foolish it is to let pimples, blackheads, boils, blotches, eczema and such things remain to handicap you.

Now that you are free of such unsightly things, people will welcome you—like to see you and talk to you, instead of making excuses to keep out of your way.

When S. S. S. starts charging through your blood, skin troubles fade away. Your whole system is improved—nerves strengthened—appetite returns—strength and power comes back into flabby muscles—you feel like yourself again.

S. S. S. is sold by all druggists. Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

Mrs. Stevens InvitesChairmen to Luncheon

Mrs. T. T. Stevens, chairman of the central committee of the Pae Fenton Otley endowment fund for Tallulah Falls Industrial school, invites the chairmen of the fashion revue ticket committee to meet her at luncheon at 12:15 o'clock Wednesday in the private dining room at Rich's tea room. Each chairman is requested to be present and make a full report of the work done in the sale of tickets for the revue presented Tuesday evening at the auditorium. A full report will be given at the luncheon of the proceeds accruing from the fashion revue.

Cards will be mailed in return and these cards will entitle their holders to free tickets to all concerts to be presented by the Music club during the fall, winter and spring, amounting to nearly $20 in concert tickets alone.

Miss Ethel CockranWeds Mr. Maddox.

Griffin, Ga., September 14.—Miss Ethel Dean Cockran, of Griffin, and W. G. Maddox, of Barnesville, were married Wednesday afternoon, September 8, at 3:30 o'clock at the Baptist parsonage in Barnesville. The Rev. Arthur Jackson, pastor of the Baptist church performed the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. The house was decorated with growing ferns and vases and baskets of white roses and asters. The bride was lovely in a modish fall gown in the new shades of tan, her hat and slippers matched her gown and she wore a corsage of sweetheart roses and swainswick. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Maddox left for their wedding trip to points in Florida, after which they will make their home in Barnesville.

Miss Olivia Smith, of Eddyville, Ky., and George Murray, of Griffin, were married quietly in Alexandria, Va., August 19, the Rev. William E. Hammond, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Mrs. Murray is well known in Griffin. During a part of last year she was head of the business college here and made many friends by her beauty, charm and unusually delightful personality. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Smith, of Eddyville, Ky. Mr. Murray is one of the most popular young business men in Griffin. He holds a responsible position with the Lowell Bleachery and is affiliated with a number of secret and civic organizations in the city. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Murray.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Ossie Belle Brooks and George Raymond Autrey, both of Griffin, will be of cordial interest to their many friends throughout the state. Miss Brooks is the daughter of W. A. Brooks, superintendent of the Third Georgia Kincaid Mills. Her mother was formerly Miss Hulda Cobb of Augusta. Mr. Autrey holds a responsible position with the mills, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Autrey.

PREACHER CHOSEN SCHOOL ARCHITECT

E. Lloyd Preacher was selected as the architect to handle the work for the new schools to be built with the school bond money, when his name was recommended by Raymond Richie at the meeting of the school board Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Preacher was nominated for the place by Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and won by a vote of 7 to 2 against the other nominee after Mr. Richie had submitted a list of architects by a system of code numbers which did not reveal the identity of the bidders.

The grading of these names resulted in the highest score for Mr. Preacher. The scoring, which was based on experiences in school construction contract letting, gave place number one to the code number naming the highest sum of points. When the results were disclosed Mr. Preacher's name was found to be number one. Nomination and election was then held by the board and Mr. Preacher's bid accepted.

TO LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR BIG VOTE TODAY

At a luncheon meeting of the League of Women Voters held Tuesday afternoon in the tearoom at M. Rich & Bros. Co., the members were addressed by 15 candidates in the coming city primary election. Mrs. R. L. Turman, president of the league, presided at the meeting. All candidates running for mayor, recorder and aldermanic offices were invited to attend.

The league will hold another meeting at 3:30 Friday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce building for the purpose of hearing all candidates running for educational offices. Mr. Sutton, superintendent of public schools, will address the body. Mrs. Turman and Mrs. E. P. Large, chairman of the educational committee of the league, will preside jointly at the Friday meeting.

The get-out-the-vote campaign will be launched today at a business men's luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic club, presided over by Edgar Neely.

Campaign for Votes.

The first part of the luncheon will be given over to the get-out-the-vote campaign in which the following civic organizations are cooperating: Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta Federation of Trades, Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, Atlanta League of Women Voters, City club, and Parent-Teachers' association.

Joel Hunter, head of the voters' prize committee, will present plans of the campaign.

Ivan Allen will speak briefly on the necessity of business men exercising the ballot.

The second half of the meeting will be on the proposed new charter for Atlanta and is for the purpose of acquainting business men to just what is being done along that line with the idea that citizens must give their support to the movement for a new charter if they expect to secure good government, it is said.

No Attack on Officials. Mr. Neely will emphasize that no attack is being made on the city officials but on the system of government under which it is difficult for anyone to function to advantage, leaders state.

A booth will be near every polling place on September 22 at which a petition under the initiative clause in the present charter may be signed. The League of Women Voters will sponsor a political gathering to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Georgia Avenue public school.

New Cudahy Packing Plant Revelation of Scientific Development of IndustryAtlantans Invited To Inspect Whitehall Street Plant Today; To Start Business Thursday.

Meat—Millions of pounds of it. A sea of lamb, beef, veal, mutton and pork. Shoulders, quarters, sides, hams and slices.

With not the slightest unpleasant suggestion that it is uncooked. Instead, inviting and savory. And steeped in an atmosphere of freshness, against a background of glistening cleanliness.

In the new Cudahy packing plant, 409 Whitehall street, which is opened to the public this morning at 9 o'clock, gastronomic regions go crazy and appetites lose all reason and sense of proportion.

One wonders why meat is cooked, and why they call them "packers." Better they were termed "artists."

Recovering from the immense sight of so vast a store of meats, you begin to look about for the things that make it so.

Spotlessly Clean. At once, you realize that you are in a place that is as spotlessly clean and fresh as a new refrigerator, and much on the same order, only, necessarily so, much bigger.

There is the realization that this vast plant and its modern, marvelous equipment represents an investment of thousands of dollars—in this instance more than $300,000. Every department is refrigerated. With the exception of the freezing room, the temperature of the various store rooms do not vary more than two degrees at any time. Even the shipping room is refrigerated. From the moment the meat leaves the receiving platform until the time it is hauled away for distribution, it is kept wholesome and fresh by this intricate system of refrigeration. Twelve of the compartments range in temperature from 32 to 40 degrees Fahrenheit. The freezing room is at 20 degrees.

Refrigeration Is Secret. The refrigeration system of the new Cudahy plant is marvelous and unlike anything ever installed within the walls of an Atlanta building. The refrigerated shipping room is the only one of its kind in the city.

Refrigeration has made the meat packing art what it is today, according to J. C. McCowan, manager of the Atlanta branch. Such a safe and sanitary plant would have been beyond the dreams of the meat ambition, had it not been for the great advancement of this particular phase of the industry, he points out, declaring that the most modern equipment known to science is installed in the Atlanta Cudahy plant.

Practically the whole of the large structure is given over to store rooms and departments for curing meat. One huge cooler is devoted entirely to fresh meats and has a capacity of 200 cars. In other rooms, shoulders, quarters and hams are hanging in almost endless rows, unbelievably clean and fresh.

There is a huge department devoted entirely to the curing of hams. A "smoke house" has the old "smoke house" of the rural district, ground which revolves a great deal of gastronomic romance, heat 13,000 miles, as the flavor of the product will attest.

Every Ounce Recorded. Every piece of meat is recorded, for weight, quality and cost. Not an ounce passes through the plant without careful inspection and recording. Mr. McCowan can give you the history and pedigree—and probably the first name—of any ham, hot dog or work chop, or what do you want? In the entire plant.

BAINBRIDGE SCHOOLS OPEN FOR NEW YEAR

Bainbridge, Ga., September 14.—(Special.)—Bainbridge city schools opened Monday morning with the largest advance registration the high school has ever had. The school buildings were filled to capacity at 8:30 when the program for the 1926-1927 term began.

The opening exercises, in charge of Superintendent R. G. Egan, were featured in talks by the various ministers of the town, members of the board of education and Dr. M. A. Fort, health commissioner.

Negro Ringleaders In Prison Strike Are Transferred

Arlington, Ga., September 14.—(Special.)—The two negro convicts who are said to have been the ring-leaders when 14 of them went on a strike and refused to leave their cages, have been transferred to other prison camps in the state, C. A. Manry, chairman of the board of county commissioners, and J. B. Adams, the warden, carrying them off last week. One of the prisoners was carried to Greenville, Ga., and one to the state farm at Milledgeville. One convict was brought back in exchange.

A GREWSOME ENCOUNTER.

Of what strange, devil given instinct was Fairways possessed that this second time he could track Richenda down with so little delay? Relief that she was to be freed from this strange captivity was tempered by the realization that she would but go back to that old captivity from which she had broken away.

She went to meet him, cheeks a little pale, brows drawn together in a contemptuous frown. Behind him stood the native boy Jeroge.

Fairways cast but one glance at her, sweeping her from crown to feet with a movement of his head. Then he turned to the crowd of natives around him, summoned the chieftain of the dog tooth necklace and tendered him a handful of loose silver, turned an unheeding shoulder against those other palms that shot out instantly before him and approached Richenda.

"The simba sleeps in the bushes, bwana."

"Come along," he said tersely.

She followed him without a word. She felt curiously helpless. It was impossible to refuse to obey his order. She could not remain behind with these people who had held her captive.

Twenty yards from the camp she halted as sudden remembrance came back to her.

"Those brutes have my rifle. They stole it."

Fairways gave a short laugh.

"You'll find it in your own tent."

She stared at him in dumb amazement.

"But, but—" she began.

"Well, if you must know, Jeroge was the thief!"

"Jeroge?" her eyes shot fire at the native boy.

"Since you apparently did your level best to pump every bullet you possessed into him last evening, one can scarcely blame the fellow for doing his best to 'draw your sting.'"

Light dawned upon her.

"Do you mean to tell me," she demanded, "that Jeroge tracked me down like that?"

"I don't," he answered. "There was no 'tracking' about it. He never lost sight of you from the first moment you left the camp. He merely followed some fifty or sixty yards behind you, and, when he thought your escape had proceeded far enough and that you were getting scared, he came closer, meaning to bring you back to the encampment by a shorter, less dangerous, way. Then, according to his dramatic account, you immediately turned upon him with blood curdling yells and did your best to send him winging up to Paradise!"

She gave vent to a little giggle.

"I think the 'blood curdling yells' came from Jeroge's imagination and Jeroge's mouth in equal proportion!" she said.

"At any rate, he was venturing no further within reach of your undependable rifle."

"Was it by Jeroge's orders that those wretches held me prisoner?"

"Of course it was," he answered shortly. "Jeroge is convinced you are mad as a hatter. 'Bitten by the sun,' he calls it. He can imagine no other reason for a woman to go galloping off into the forest like that. To him it points clearly to sheer lack of sense. He is not far off the mark, either," he ended drily.

She bit her lip. All her endeavor had gone for nothing! She was back at this man's side, his captive as before. She wondered vaguely how the thing would end.

Fairways' explanation shed the light of understanding now on many things that had puzzled her.

Those kindly smiling creatures they had left behind had thought her mad, not fit to be allowed to wander out alone. So they had kept her, guarded her, till Jeroge, who went off to summon his master as soon as dawn had made the return journey safe, should reappear with Fairways to relieve them of their charge.

And Fairways had set a native boy to watch her! Her cheeks burned with the insult of it. To what low position had she sunk that he dared degrade her in the eyes of an elemental servant!

Jeroge, following behind, wondered vaguely at the vicious glance she shot back across her shoulder at him.

Truly, he reflected complacently, he had done well. "Look after the memsahib. See that no harm comes to her." The bwana had said that. And he had obeyed the order, had seen that she was safely kept. Well it was for him that he had done this. He shouldered to think what would have happened had the bwana returned to the camp and found the memsahib lost. Surely then Jeroge's brown back would have suffered sorely, for white men, in anger, were not light of hand!

And the memsahib was truly bitten of the sun... sick in the head. Now, had she been his, Jeroge's wife, he would forthwith have sent her back to her people demanding the return of the goats which he had given for her. Then he would have taken another damsel whose head was sound.

They were walking in silence across low bushy rolling plain now. Richenda noticed that Fairways' face was drawn and white. He looked very tired.

"How is the man who was hurt by the rhino?" she asked him haltingly.

"Dead," he replied shortly. "At nine o'clock this morning." She fell silent. To that was why he appeared fatigued. He had been up all night with the dying man. No doubt he had conducted the primitive funeral which, as in all tropic countries, would take place within a few hours of the death. Then, straightway, without a moment's rest, he tramped miles across the country in search of a decamping wife. Truly, for Fairways, it had been a crowded twenty-four hours.

They walked on without any further word passing between them. It was a quick warning from Jeroge that brought them to a sudden halt. The native was pointing agitatedly at a clump of low bushes not five yards from where they stood. Three or four tattered rags of gaudy muslin were fluttering from the thorny branches and, close by, a rough hide-fashioned native shoe lay on the edge of a patch of black-stained earth.

Their eyes took the objects in, then went farther to where more sinister things lay scattered upon the withered grass.

"My godfather!" Fairways' whisper was barely audible and Richenda, standing frozen with horror, could only stare at one hideous thing which brought home its grewsome tale to her.

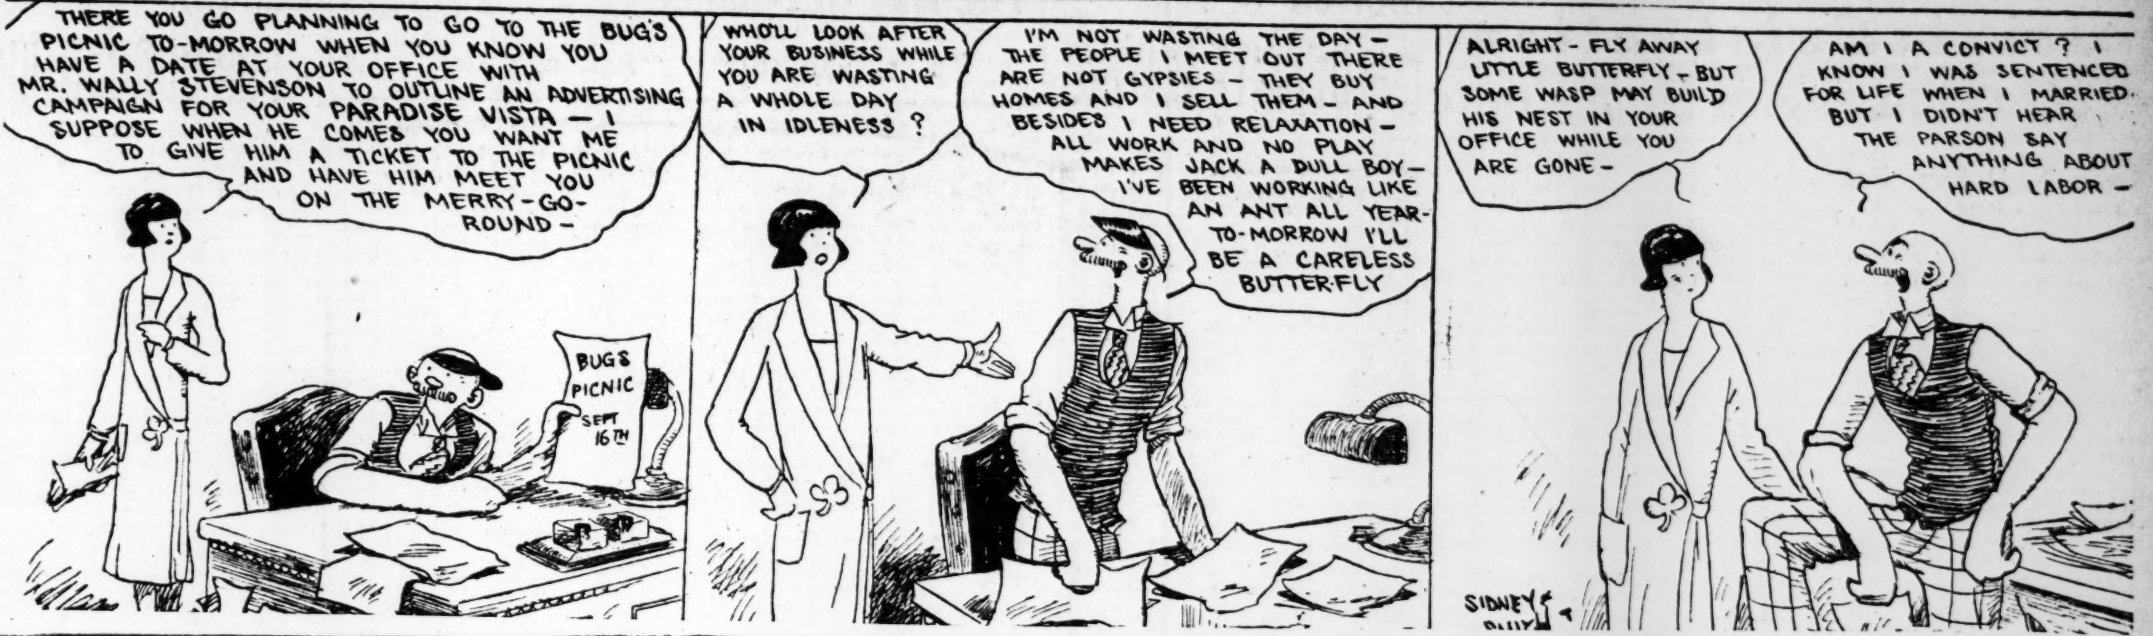

A slender wire girl arm it was, cut short below the elbow, the slim little fingers still stretched rigid in the terror which had been upon them when they died. It lay there calling them to read its tragedy.

"The simba sleeps in the bushes, bwana," came Jeroge's murmur an inch from Fairways' ear.

Atlanta and Asheville Join in Celebration On Opening of New Route

John N. Holder, Former Governor Morrison and Frank Page To Address
Crowds at Ceremonies.

Franklin, N. C., September 14.—(Special.)—Celebrating the opening of a new route between Asheville, N. C., and Atlanta more than 2,000 persons are expected here today to form a part of a celebration which will be held at Asheville, N. C., on the occasion of the opening of the new route. The celebration will be held at Asheville, N. C., on the occasion of the opening of the new route. The celebration will be held at Asheville, N. C., on the occasion of the opening of the new route.

The signal for this celebration was the recent completion in North Carolina of Highway No. 255, a stretch of 21 miles between Franklin and Asheville. The road cost the state $1,000,000 and is a fine example of modern highway engineering.

The purpose of the celebration and the committee in charge of the celebration are expected to have a large number of guests from the north Georgia and western North Carolina. The celebration will be held at Asheville, N. C., on the occasion of the opening of the new route.

Principal speakers at the celebration here are John N. Holder, chairman of the Georgia state highway board; former Governor Morrison; and Frank Page, chairman of the North Carolina highway board.

The Asheville and Atlanta motorcade is expected to leave their cities in time to meet at the Georgia-North Carolina state line at 11 o'clock this morning, picking up delegations at various points along the new route and arrive here in time for luncheon.

New York, September 14.—(P)—Concentration of buying power in support of a few special issues, mostly in the foreign division, failed to bolster up the rest of the bond market today and prices drifted irregularly lower. Most of the changes were trifling although the turnover was the heaviest in several days.

Sustained buying activity in the French list, which carried a number of the government, railroad and steamship issues to the year's top prices, was attributed to operations for the account of European bankers and investors.

Despite the successful offering of a new $15,000,000 6 1/2 per cent loan for Finland, which was promptly oversubscribed, the outstanding bonds of that country were inclined to weaken, the 7 1/2 per cent loan of 1925 being particularly depressed.

A rise of 1 1/2 points in Chicago Railways 5 per cent bonds attracted unusual attention while New York Central and Northern Pacific Transp. bonds were depressed by statements of city officials in support of the 6 per cent rate.

Price movements of railroad bonds were conflicting, with the list as a whole losing ground. St. Paul issues were unsettled by the controversy over the proposed uprate on the part of opposing reorganization groups and slight recessions took place in Pere Marquette, 4s, Peoria and Rock Island, 4s, and Iowa Central, 4s. Granby 7s and Wickliffe-Spencer Steel 7s were the strongest features of the industrial section.

An $18,000,000 6 per cent bond issue for the Canada Steamship company is scheduled for offering tomorrow at a price of 97.

HIGHWAY ASSURED

Waycross, Ga., September 14.—(Special.)—As a result of a conference Monday between the state highway department and Division Engineer H. M. Pafford and the clerk of the War and Commerce, J. D. Mitchell, it is now certain that the contract for gravel for the highway from Waycross to the ten and a quarter mile post will be let on September 20.

In order to do this the highway department is sending here immediately from Valdosta the relocation engineer to mark off the route. The completion of this contract will give a road from Waycross to the Coffee county line at Nichols, all of which can be paved with one more contract.

The portion to be let is a part of the Columbus-Brunswick highway from Alabama to the Atlantic ocean. Mack Bennett comedy called "Circus Today."

The Metropolitan.

Constance Talmadge's newest photoplay, "The Duchess of Buffalo," is proving a stellar success in a Spanish Metropolitan theater this week and the large audiences give every evidence of finding great enjoyment and entertainment in the picture. Constance Talmadge has not had a photoplay in several years that measures up to "The Duchess of Buffalo." It is a picture that might be aptly termed a "big dancing revue with a serious comedy." It is at least that, it is said to offer a world of light but satisfying entertainment.

The secondary film feature is the picture "The Cat's Pajamas," which has promised excellent is presented by the Rialto theater.

The feature film is the Paramount special feature, "The Cat's Pajamas," which Ernest Vajda, the Hungarian author of the story, termed "a serious comedy." It is at least that, it is said to offer a world of light but satisfying entertainment.

The Day in Finance

Professional Traders Change
Attitude and Bid for Stocks of Limited Supply, and Higher Prices Now Prevail.

New York, September 14.—Professional traders, who have recently been selling stocks short to see whether liquidation of long stocks could thus be started, turned about today but found on bidding for stocks that the supply at existing prices was limited. Higher prices resulted.

The best buying today, however, is believed to be in Steel common, General Motors, Mack Truck, Yellow Cab and Warner Brothers. The stock market in the last named stock is believed to be very large because of the recent sensational advance and the recent publicity given to the fact that the stock is callable at 17.

There are two classes of Warner Brothers, the "A" being traded in on the New York stock exchange and the "B" on the curb market. The "A" stock is callable at 17 and the "B" stock is callable at 17. The "A" stock is believed to be very large because of the recent sensational advance and the recent publicity given to the fact that the stock is callable at 17.

Atchafalpa held a directors meeting today, but only one business was transacted. The directors are scheduled for a month hence. New York Central and Northern Pacific directors are expected to act on dividend matters. A record-breaking dividend is expected at this year's convention partly because of the fight from the floor which will occur over the dividend.

This controversy has arisen in one form or the other at every convention of the American Bankers association for many years. A year ago a vote has been taken against branch banks. Henceforth, the fight has been between comparative small banks and large banks. The large banks are mostly in the east, on the other. Recently, however, a fight has arisen over branch banks in the west and south and the committee of 100 recently organized to oppose branch banks will carry its fight on the open on the floor.

While the law regulating national banks is not as clear as it might be, the bill of branch banks is as opposed to branch banks. But in recent years despite this law and the opposition of small interior banks, branch banks have grown rapidly and the feeling here is that it has come to stay.

New York, September 14.—(P)—After selling up to 17.23 during today's early trading on tropical storm apprehensions, the cotton market broke to 16.93 for December contracts, but recovered to 17.23 by the close. The market was unsettled by the weather in the belt, prices rallied 17 to 17 points on a rumor that storm signals had been ordered up on the Louisiana coast, but the market turned easier again when the report was denied and eased off to a fair weather map, a favorable forecast and having it passed by Daugherty and Miller are on trial is "conspiracy to defraud the United States" of their unbiased, unprejudiced and honest and intelligent services." Testimony was adduced to show that Merion paid the late John T. King, republican national committeeman, from Connecticut, fee amounting to $41,000 for "rushing" his claim through the alien property custodian's office and having it passed by Daugherty, then attorney general.

Mr. Ruckner conducted an exhaustive indirect examination of Merion on technical phases of the financing of the Société Suisse and the Swiss bank and their relations to the two German companies—the Metallbank, S. A., and the Metallgesellschaft—of which Merion was a director.

At the start as Liverpool was lower than day, first trades showed losses of 8 to 10 points and October soon traded down to 16.85. December, however, showing three separate disturbances existed in the tropics, the market turned easier again during the afternoon and at the close of the day prices showed losses of 45 to 47 points. There was a slight rally at the end and the close showed net losses for the day of 30 to 40 points.

DEMAND WIDENS FOR CURB STOCKS

New York, September 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—A broadening demand for stocks was noted in today's curb market, but new spot stocks dropped out in several sections of the list. Stocks again were active in a number of specialties with easier money rates looked for when the income tax payments and government financing are out of the way.

Oils showed a firmer undertone, the cut in Magnolia Crude prices being offset by private estimates of a reduction in crude output last week for the first time in over two months. Ohio, Vacuum, Gulf, New York and Red Bank advanced a point or two. Tidal Oil jumped 5 1/2 points to a
